Scott expressed disgust with the Houston police department saying, "they could of helped and didn't." They fear their son is dead. (AP Wirephoto)

Authorities seek murder indictments

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities sought indictments today against two touse-haired teenagers charged in the largest mass murder in the nation's history.

The recovery of four additional bodies Monday at a beach on the Gulf Coast brought to 27 the number of victims found since last Wednesday. Digging for more bodies has stopped for now.

"We have recovered what they said was there. We're through," Capt. G. W. Woods of the Jefferson County sheriff's office said Monday night. Digging also stopped in Galveston and Chambers counties, all of which converge at the High Island coastal area where the last excavations were made.

In Houston, a reliable source confirmed that the Harris County district attorney's office plans to ask a grand jury today to indict Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David O. Brooks, 18, for murder.

Brooks, Henley and Dean Allen Corll, 33, who Henley said he shot to death last Wednesday, allegedly were involved in a homosexual torture-murder ring.

Brooks and Henley are being held by police under $100,000 bonds. Henley has been charged with two slayings in Houston and three in San Augustine County and has told police he took part in nine killings. Brooks was charged with one murder in Houston but has said he did not kill anyone.

Henley appeared briefly in court Monday. Charles Melder, Henley's lawyer, asked state District Court Judge George Walker to order a psychiatric examination for his client.

Earlier, Melder said he plans to plead that Henley is not guilty by reason of insanity.

In a news conference Monday, Houston Police Chief Herman Short answered charges that his department had been lax in not discovering the series of murders of teen-agers that stretched over a three-year period.

The criticism has come from some parents of missing teenaged boys. Many of the youths believed slain come from one neighborhood and were acquainted with Henley. The critical parents say police should have seen the connection.

Short said the number of missing youths was masked by the 5,200 runaways reported in Houston in 1972 and even higher numbers the two previous years.

Girl brutally beaten, raped hitchhiking across Indiana

PLAINFIELD, Ind. (AP)— "It looks like they tried to beat her to death," says Police Chief Lee E. Miller, describing a teenage hitchhiker who was beaten and raped. "All her teeth are gone, most of her gums have been beaten out, and part of her jawbone is missing."

The 18-year-old East Providence, R.I., girl, Patricia McDevitt, remained in serious condition today at Marion County General Hospital.

The girl was kidnapped late Sunday night by two men and a woman as she and a companion hitchhiked on the west side of Indianapolis, police said.

She had been beaten and raped and was found nude Monday afternoon at the edge of a cornfield, 20 miles west of here, police said.

"Evidently she put up one hell of a fight, or else they took special delight in torture-beating her," Miller said. "Her face is so badly beaten she won't be able to talk for quite a few days."

Her companion, Stephen Baker, 17, Grand Ledge, Mich., told police he and the girl were driven to the south side of Plainfield, about 10 miles west of Indianapolis, where one of the men pulled a gun and asked for Baker's money.

He said his hands were tied and he was beaten with a longbarreled pistol before the assailants drove away with the girl.

At the hospital Monday, police said the girl wrote out her name and the names and address of her parents. The parents were expected to arrive in Indianapolis today.

Baker required 24 stitches in the head. He had two teeth knocked out and one eye was swollen shut.

Bomb halt comes tonight; costs U.S. $442.8 million

See U.N. split over censure of Israelis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — All 15 members of the U.N. Security Council agree that Israel should be censured for forcing down an Arab airliner last weekend. But a split may develop over Arab demands for punitive action.

Debate continues today, and a vote is not expected before Thursday.

The United States, Israel's traditional backer, indicated it was ready to join in a censure motion as the 15-nation council opened the debate Monday. But a U.S. spokesman said his delegation would oppose any resolution going beyond censure.

Lebanon, the owner of the airliner, hoped to negotiate a compromise resolution that would get U.S. support and still carry some form of penalty or threat of penalty against Israel.

Israeli jets intercepted the plane over Beirut Friday night and diverted it to a military airfield in Israel in hopes of capturing George Habash, the leader of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, and three other guerrilla leaders. The four were not aboard.

Lebanese Ambassador Edouard Ghorra and other Arab speakers told the council that the interception was an unprecedented act of "state terrorism." The Israelis "have either sunk to the level of hijackers or have elevated hijacking to a state policy," Ghorra said.

Lebanon, Egypt and the Soviet Union called for sanctions against Israel. A draft resolution under discussion would ask the International Civil Aviation Organization, a U.N. agency that regulates commercial air traffic, to take "adequate measures against Israel" to insure the safety of civil aviation. It also would threaten action by the Security Council if Israel interfered again with foreign air traffic.

Israeli Ambassador Josef Tekoah told the council that Israel had acted in justified self-defense because the United Nations and the world community were failing to combat "the plague of terrorism sweeping across the world."

Gilligan says he'd debate with Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan said Tuesday he would "absolutely" welcome a debate with former Gov. James Rhodes, a gubernatorial candidate in next year's election.

In a short news conference, Gilligan reiterated he had full confidence in Bennett J. Cooper, director of the Department of Correction and Rehabilitation.

"I cannot make any judgment on Warden Whealon (at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility) because I have no reports to judge Mr. Whealon on," Gilligan said.

Gilligan said he would not favor recognizing the Ohio Prisoners Labor Union because "I don't see any role for a prisoners union. It's absurd on the face of it."

On a legislative issue, Gilligan said he was hopeful the Ohio General Assembly would pass ethics legislation he submitted when it returns later this month. Gilligan said the ethics bill is "right up to the lip now."

Price hikes further pinch pocketbooks

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The pocketbook pinch worsened during the first two weeks of August as the nation prepared for further price hikes with Monday's debut of Phase 4, an Associated Press marketbasket shows.

The AP has been keeping tabs on 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities across the country since March 1, rechecking the prices at the beginning of each month with special surveys in between.

A check made Monday showed fresh price rises on top of already-healthy increases that turned up earlier.

The AP surveyed the prices in 12 cities Monday. The prices in Providence, R.I., normally the 13th city in the marketbasket, were unavailable because stores were closed due to a state holiday in honor of VJ Day.

The survey showed that, from July 31 to Aug. 13, 22 per cent of the 180 items checked in the 12 cities went up in price; 8 per cent went down in price; 57 per cent were unchanged; and 13 per cent were not available on one of the two check dates.

An earlier check showed that 17 per cent of the items in the 12 cities went up in price between July 23 and July 31. Six per cent went down during that period; 65 per cent were unchanged; and 12 per cent were unavailable.

The results sounded like a broken record: eggs and pork chops led the list of higher-price items again.

Food prices, except for beef, have been rising ever since President Nixon announced in July that processors and sellers could pass on increases in raw

Ohio Bell rate hike still fought

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rang in a $98 million series of rate increases across Ohio today, although a Cleveland opponent of the hikes vowed to fight for a rollback.

The series of rate increases mean more expensive dialing for Ohioans in a host of areas— including monthly phone bills, direct-dial long distance, unlisted numbers, installation and operator-handled calls.

But Cleveland Councilman Dennis J. Kucinich, who filed as an intervenor in the original rate hearings, said he would carry his opposition to the federal courts if necessary to prevent the hikes.

Kucinich contended the new rates will be discriminatory since Clevelanders' phone bills will be hiked by about $1.40 a month for single line service while other metropolitan areas in the state will rise by about $1.15 to $1.20.

The Cleveland increase will bring single line phone service here to $9.25 a month, compared to $8 a month in Columbus, $7.80 in Dayton, Akron and Toledo, and $7.45 in Youngstown.

The differing rates are based on the number of the toll-free calls that can be made from a given phone, but Kucinich claims the system really means Clevelanders subsidize phone service elsewhere in the state.

Kucinich said he would ask the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio first for a rehearing but that— expecting denial of that request— his lawyers also were drafting an injunction request for the Ohio Supreme Court.

If that also were unsuccessful, Kucinich said he would "immediately appeal to the federal courts for an injunction on the basis that the PUCO decision deprives Cleveland area phone subscribers of equal protection of Ohio law."

The increase, cut from an original requested hike of $168 million, was approved by PUCO earlier, but the company said it did not receive final approval to implement the rates until Monday. They went into effect at midnight.

Bruce Galloway, commercial manager for the company in Washington C.H., said the new rates are "usage sensitive." He said that Ohio Bell is trying to charge those customers who ask for special services, rather than spread the cost for these services over all customers' bills.

"For instance, the new residence phone installation charge of $16, and $20 for business places a more realistic cost on the customer ordering the service moved," Galloway said.

"Another example is the new charge of 50 cents a month for unlisted numbers. Non-Published service requires special handling by the company right from the time the customer places the order," Galloway noted "these numbers are strictly supervised and security is tight. Yet costs of this special security, record keeping and operator handling keep rising, so we have asked that those costs be borne by those who have unlisted numbers."

Non-published number customers will also have the option of canceling this service. Those who choose non-published service will have the additional option of ordering an emergency call report service, paying 75 cents for each message that is delivered to them.

Under the new rates single party residential service in Washington C.H. will increase 95 cents monthly, two party service will go 75 cents a month. Monthly increases for business services will amount to $2.60 for a single line and $7.95 for a truck line. Extension phones in a residence will be 90 (Please turn to page 2)

Cambodia to be left on own

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last U.S. bomb will fall on Cambodia by midnight (EDT) tonight, ending history's longest air war that saw Indochina blasted with a record 7.4 million tons of explosives.

The extra six and a half months of bombing in Cambodia after the Vietnam ceasefire has added to doubts about the ability of air power to force political settlements in wars of this kind.

Despite the backing of more than 430 U.S. bombers and fighter bombers, Cambodia's army of about 190,000 men was squeezed into enclaves by a Communist-led insurgent force about one-fourth its size. As the U.S. bombing drew to a close, the insurgents held about 80 per cent of Cambodia's territory.

Pentagon officials said no one can forecast with any confidence what will happen after the American warplanes halt their bombing runs. The Cambodian military has only 50 small fighter bombers.

The Nixon administration took the position that U.S. bombing support of the Cambodian army was needed to bring about a cease-fire there and North Vietnamese compliance with sections of the Paris agreement requiring Hanoi to pull its troops out of Cambodia.

But there is no Cambodian cease-fire and no real prospect of one. U.S. intelligence estimates the North Vietnamese have about 30,000 soldiers in Cambodia, most of them in a position to threaten South Vietnam.

The prolonged air strike in Cambodia, and for a limited time in Laos after the Vietnam peace agreement was signed in January, added to the heavy cost borne by the United States in waging the air war, which dates back to 1965.

Sixteen U.S. servicemen's names have been added to the roster of about 2,100 pilots and air crewmen who earlier lost their lives. Four Americans are missing in action, joining about 1,260 other U.S. fighting men whose fate is still not known.

The U.S. Air Force lost 10 aircraft worth about $31.4 million, on top of the nearly 3,700 planes either shot down or crashed between 1965 and the signing of the Vietnam peace pact.

The Pentagon estimates the six-and-a-half-month phase of the air war in Cambodia and Laos cost the taxpayer about $442.8 million.

Dollar higher on markets

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar moved up at the opening of European foreign exchange markets today, and gold dropped to a three-month low.

The dollar sold at 2.9645 Swiss francs in Zurich, two centimes over Monday's close, and at 2.4160 marks in Frankfurt, up a pfennig. The dollar gained a quarter of a cent in London with the pound quoted at $2.4722. Dealers said the dollar was being helped by improving U.S. trade figures, the falling gold price and higher interest rates that discourage borrowing for gold speculation.

Gold dropped $4.25 from Monday's close to $97.75 an ounce in early trading today in London. It was the lowest price since May 11.

In Zurich, gold opened at $99 after closing Monday at $101.75.

The metal was selling for $127.50 on June 5, and more than half of its drop since then has come in the past week. It dipped under $100 Monday for the first time in three months, hitting $99 in London, but recovered to $102 before trading closed.

Cox tells why he wants tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox has given the public his first detailed summary of what he hopes to learn about Watergate from tape recordings of presidential conversations.

Cox included the summary in a 68-page argument filed Monday in federal court in support of his request for a court order compelling President Nixon to surrender the tapes.

Nixon refused to comply with a subpoena from Cox demanding the tapes of nine presidential conversations.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica gave the White House until Friday to file any additional arguments and scheduled courtroom debate for Aug. 22.

The tapes demanded by Cox cover eight meetings and one telephone conversation between June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate break-in, and April 15, 1973.

In his brief, Cox noted that on Sept. 15, 1972, after a federal grand jury had indicted seven men for their participation in the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters, Nixon met with H.R. Haldeman, then his staff chief, and John W. Dean III, then his counsel.

Dean told the Senate Watergate committee the President congratulated him for doing a good job. Dean said he interpreted Nixon's remarks as evidence the President was aware of the cover-up.

Haldeman, who told the committee he had listened recently to the tape of the meeting, said there was discussion of the Watergate case, but denied Nixon congratulated Dean on his efforts to thwart the investigation.

If the tapes confirm Dean's version, said Cox, "it will tend to establish that a conspiracy to obstruct justice reached the highest level of government."

"If Haldeman's innocuous version of the meeting can be sustained, it is because the meeting only involved an innocent discussion of political interests. The question of Dean's perjury would then arise."

Cox offered some comments on other tapes he seeks:

—Meeting of June 20, 1972, between the President and aides John D. Ehrlichman and Haldeman. "The contemporary evidence of that meeting should show the extent of the knowledge of the illegal activity by the participants or any effort to conceal the truth from the respondent (Nixon)."

—Telephone call June 20, from former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, then director of the President's re-election campaign, to Nixon. "This apparently was the first direct contact after the break-in between respondent and Mitchell...."

—Meeting of June 30, 1972, between Nixon, Mitchell and Haldeman. Mitchell has testified it concerned his impending resignation as campaign director. It "strains credulity to suppose that Watergate and how Watergate affected Mitchell and the campaign were not topics of conversation."

—Meeting of March 13, 1973, between Nixon, Dean and Haldeman. Dean told the committee that Nixon said he had approved executive clemency for E. Howard Hunt Jr. and that there would be no problem raising $1 million to buy the silence of the Watergate defendants.

—Two meetings on March 21, 1973. Participants included Nixon, Dean, Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Ronald L. Ziegler, presidential press secretary. Haldeman quoted Nixon as saying there would be no problem raising $1 million. He added that the President said it would not be right to pay the money.

—Meeting of March 22, 1973. Participants were Nixon, Dean, Ehrlichman, Haldeman and Mitchell. "This meeting was apparently concerned with political assessments... and is likely to reveal the knowledge and motives of the participants."

—Meeting of April 15 between Nixon and Dean. The ousted White House counsel told the Senate committee the President told him he had only been joking in his reference to raising $1 million and that he had been foolish to discuss executive clemency with Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel.

Guardsman tells of KSU incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Ohio National Guardsman present at the 1970 Kent State University shootings says he witnessed a campus patrolman seize a gun from a photographer, then exclaim, "My God, it's been fired!"

The former guardsman, Michael Delaney, said he saw Terrence B. Norman turn over the .38-caliber revolver to the patrolman two or three minutes after a fusillade of bullets killed four students and wounded nine others.

Norman's presence and activities on the campus apparently will be part of the renewed Justice Department investigation of the shootings.

Whether Norman's gun was fired has become a key point of dispute.

Norman, who now works for the riot-trained special operations division of the District of Columbia police department, has refused comment. His attorney could not be reached in several attempts Monday night.

Delaney, who also works in Washington, said in an interview that he did not examine the gun himself but overheard the patrolman who took it from Norman say instantly that the weapon had been fired.

Although Delaney said he did not know the patrolman's name, the FBI has identified him as Harold Rice.

Delaney's account is similar to the report of a Little Rock, Ark., newsman who also was at Kent State. The newsman, Fred R. DeBrine, said he saw Norman turn over the gun and heard him say, "I had to do it. They were trying to kill me."

DeBrine also said the campus policeman handed the pistol to campus detective Thomas Kelley, who opened the chamber and exclaimed, "My God, he fired four shots. What the hell do we do now?"

Kelley has denied making the statement and declared last Tuesday, "The gun had not been fired."

DeBrine said Monday night that Delaney was present and had witnessed the encounter with Norman.

A former newsman, Delaney said he was at the time a public information officer for the guard and had been assigned to issue press credentials to newsmen covering the campus disturbances.

He said he reluctantly issued credentials to Norman after a university official told him Norman "had done some work for the FBI."

Delaney said the matter of the press credentials enabled him to recognize Norman at the encounter following the shootings.

Next Skylab rocket moved to Cape Kennedy launch pad

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The rocket and spacecraft being prepared as possible rescue vehicles for the Skylab 2 astronauts move to the launch pad today at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

However, space agency officials here emphasize the move is just a precaution. They feel confident Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma will be able to return safely to earth Sept. 25 in their Apollo ship.

A Saturn 1B rocket, with a new Apollo perched on top, was to make the 3½-mile trip to the launch pad from an assembly building on a giant tracked transporter.

After a month of checkout, the rocket will be ready on Sept. 10 or later if a rescue mission is required. Flying the mission in a modified five-seat Apollo would be Skylab backup astronauts Vance D. Brand and Donald L. Lind.

If a rescue is not necessary, the rocket and spacecraft will be used to carry the Skylab 3 crew, probably in November, for a two-month stay in the space lab.

Around-the-clock preparations for a possible rescue were ordered two weeks ago when leaks developed in two jet steering engines in the Skylab 2 spacecraft, now docked at one end of the orbiting space station.

Although analysis of the problems is not complete, space agency engineers feel other steering jets on the vehicle are in good shape and can bring the craft back to earth safely.

Solar astronomy and medical experiments were to occupy the three astronauts today, the 18th day in their 59-day mission.

The News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aide to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has hinted that Agnew will turn over to federal prosecutors the financial and tax records they seek in an investigation of political corruption in Maryland.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a hideaway office surrounded by mementos of his quarter century in public life, President Nixon is putting the final touches on what could be the most important speech he's ever made. It will be about Watergate, the scandal that has shaken his administration.

It will be made this week, probably Wednesday or Thursday, on national television.

What will the President say? Not many people know.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ford Motor Co. was expected today to join Chrysler Corp., American Motors and other major U.S. firms in seeking higher prices under the Nixon administration's new Phase 4 "antiflation" program.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio is trying to determine how new customers should obtain natural gas in the event of a shortage.

Attorneys for about 75 natural gas companies from Ohio and the U.S. appeared at PUCO hearings which began Monday. The hearings are expected to run through the end of the week.

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada has imposed export controls on pork and beef to head off a meat shortage similar to that in the United States.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off .05 to 55.18 at noon.

On the American Stock Exchange, losers also held abroad lead over gainers and the price-change index had dipped .03 to 23.04 at noon.

Tenneco, the Big Board volume leader, lost 1/2 to 20 1/2. Phelps Dodge, reflecting increased demand for copper, rose 3/4 to 47 1/4.

Gold mining stocks were lower, reflecting the steep drop in the metal's price on European markets. ASA Ltd. fell 1 3/4 to 38 1/2.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Showers and thundershowers were expected to be general around Ohio today as a low pressure center crossed the state.

The rain started in the southern and western sections early today and were likely to reach the northeastern counties by noon. All showers activity should end by late tonight, forecasters said.

Temperatures were expected to climb into the upper 70s and low 80s today and Wednesday. Lows tonight will be in the low to mid-60s.

Scattered showers were reported in the southern and central sections of the state Monday. Highs ranged from 79 in Columbus to 83 at Cincinnati.

At daybreak today, readings were from the mid 60s to the low 70s.

Ohio can expect fair weather Thursday through Saturday with highs in the 80s and lows in the upper 50s and 60s.

Armco Steel hikes prices

Armco Steel Corp. has announced that it is reinstating the price increases on sheet steel products which were to have become effective June 17. The scheduled increases were delayed by the phase III price freeze.

In compliance with the phase IV regulations, Armco is filing a notice of its cost increases with the Cost of Living Council and intends to make the price increases effective on shipments starting Sept. 12, the conclusion of the 30-day mandatory waiting period.

Armco stated that the increases would average approximately 5 per cent over current prices and would fall considerably short of reflecting a dollar-for-dollar pass through of major advances in costs of materials and labor which it has incurred since the phase IV base period of the fourth quarter of 1972. If applied on an industry basis as measured by 1972 shipments, it is estimated that the increases would amount to about 2 per cent of the total sales revenue.

An Armco spokesman emphasized that the Bureau of Labor Statistics price indexes show that since the implementation of the price control program in August 1971, the prices of sheet steel products have increased less than prices of heavy steel products such as plates and structurals. Sheet steel price increases have also been less than half the increase for industrial commodities and about one-fifth of the increase in the wholesale price index for all commodities.

There have been no price increases in the past 19 months in spite of employment cost increases of 8 per cent each in August 1972 and 1973, a 50 percent increase in the price of scrap and substantial increases in practically all other materials, fuels and services.

"It is obvious," the spokesman said, "that the flat rolled segment of the steel industry has borne a disproportionate share of the burden of price stabilization, and price relief is long overdue."

cents a month and $1.90 on business lines.

Ohio Bell Public Relations Vice President Joseph Reed said the rate increase was "less than we felt was needed," but he said the company agreed to the lower figure because we "desperately need more revenue immediately."

He said the company tried to place the burden of the increases wherever possible on persons asking for special services. The company now requires a 50-cent monthly charge for unlisted service, he said, because "costs of this special security, record keeping and operator handling keep rising."

Along the same line, Reed said, businesses will have to pay more for services such as extensions and installation than home phone customers.

Another feature of the new rates include scrapping of the old three-minute minimum charge for long distance calls within Ohio. The new minimum will be one minute, with set charges for each additional minute, the company said.

Ohioans calling long distance out of state, however, still will be charged on the three-minute minimum basis.

Ohio may get $39 million for transit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio could receive $39 million this year to help solve mass transportation problems in the state's big cities.

State Transportation Director J. Phillip Richley said Monday Ohio expects a total of $168.8 million this fiscal year from the Federal Highway Act of 1973. President Nixon signed the $22.9 billion appropriation measure Monday.

The three-year act "has opened the door for mass transit and provided local options for using money, but has not closed the door on highways," Richley said.

He said $39 million of Ohio's share could be earmarked for easing transportation problems in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Youngstown, Dayton, Akron and Canton.

Local funding proposals will be needed to obtain the federal money, Richley said.

"We need the urban areas working hard on their local transportation problems. If they don't get the money, it won't be because it wasn't available."

Richley said the local areas will decide whether the funds are spent on mass transit or highways.

If spent on mass transit, the money could go to acquire failing, privately owned transportation lines or to build terminals or other facilities, the director said.

He said the bill also contains money for rural public transportation programs.

Energy conservation importance noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy conservation was described today as apparently the most promising approach to solving environmental problems related to energy use.

The Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) reached that conclusion, and several others, in a preliminary analysis designed to show how the environmental impact of various energy-producing systems can be traced and estimated.

The report concentrated on present fuel sources—coal, oil, gas and nuclear—and on those future sources that seem closest to reality, such as oil shale, coal gasification and the nuclear breeder reactor.

On a tentative basis, the CEQ concluded, "this report has significant implications for several aspects of a national energy policy."

"First... energy conservation, to the extent feasible, is the most environmentally desirable way to meet our needs."

"Second, coal-fired electricity systems, which are shown to cause significantly more pollution than other fossil-fueled systems, could be controlled to a high level without impairing their economic viability."

The council said pollution control would increase the cost of coal-generated electricity to the consumer by about 12 per cent.

"...third, natural gas was shown to be a very clean source of energy However, it is in short supply," the council said.

No specific proposals were offered, but the report ended with a plug for the administration's legislative proposals to consolidate energy programs in a new Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

The council consists of three members and a small staff, attached to the White House to advise the President.

Wheat exporter faces charges filed by CEA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commodity Exchange Authority (CEA) has filed its second formal complaint against a grain exporter involved in last year's massive wheat sale to Russia.

The authority announced Monday it has charged the Louis Dreyfus Corp. of New York with willfully understating its wheat holdings during July-October 1972.

Dreyfus shipped about 18 per cent of the 440 million bushels of U.S. wheat exported to the Soviet Union in 1972-73. The controversial grain sales by private firms were made under a U.S.-Soviet agreement signed July 8, 1972.

The CEA is investigating all firms that sold wheat to Russia. Its latest complaint, however, did not specifically draw a link between Dreyfus' alleged understating of holdings and the Russian deal.

Various investigations of the wheat sales have produced allegations that firms dealt secretly in cash with Russian buyers before the pact was signed, falsified their records to keep their positions hidden from competitors and manipulated commodities futures markets.

The authority had previously charged Continental Grain Co. Inc., which shipped more than half the 440 million bushels, with willfully filing inaccurate, incomplete statements on its transactions during roughly the same July-October period.

'Armed escorts' over Cambodia hit by senator

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says providing U.S. armed escorts for reconnaissance and cargo planes in Cambodia would violate the bombing halt agreement.

"I don't believe the Congress will go along with it," the Arkansas Democrat said Monday.

He added that sending out armed escorts or engaging in other military activities in Cambodia after Wednesday's bombing halt would "be utterly pointless and useless."

The Pentagon left open Monday the possibility that the United States might provide armed escorts or take other military action if U.S. reconnaissance and cargo planes were fired on after the bombing ends.

New ADC formula computed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Controlling Board approved a new computing formula Monday that will increase Aid to Dependent Children benefits an average of $15 a month.

Welfare Director Charles Bates said the new Uniform Allowance would save taxpayers' money by reducing department errors and rewarding recipients for better money management.

The request, approved 5-2, will become effective Sept. 1. It will be financed with the $633,072,800 ($303,893,000 of it state money) in the 1974-75 biennium appropriations. Benefits will start in October.

State Sens. Howard C. Cook, R-1 Toledo, and Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, voted against the request. Cook accused the department of giving misleading figures to legislators in order to get their appropriations.

Bates was to hold a news conference Tuesday to explain the new funding formula.

The welfare director denied Cook's allegation, saying that when the budget request was presented, the April caseload was unknown.

Under the Uniform Allowance, Bates said all families of four would receive up to $201 per month for food, clothing, shelter and utilities.

The new formula will consist of subtracting outside income from a standard established solely upon the size of a family.

Although Bates said the increase would vary because of family sizes, he predicted it at $15 per month. The Legislative Service Commission, the research arm of the legislature, said it may be $23 a month.

The controlling board also gave the Department of Highway Safety permission to waive competitive bidding on a contract with an Illinois supplier for production of 1974 reflectorized license plates for $714,000.

The agreement calls for the state to pay Structo Division of King-Seely Thermos Co. of Freeport, Ill., 23.8 cents for manufacturing three million sets of 1974 Ohio license plates. Ohio is to provide all steel and reflective material, and Structo guarantees the finished plates will be ready for shipping by Jan. 1, 1974.

The board also approved $224,670 in requests from the Department of Transportation as well as a Transportation Research Center request for a $2,500 test track dummy.

India still holds about 90,000 Pakistanis taken during the December 1971 war that ended with the creation of Bangladesh.

How to keep your cool and cut your cooling bill.

DP&L Consumer Service Representatives have some suggestions to help you get more comfort from your air conditioner and still keep your electric bill low. The items on this checklist may save you many dollars.

- ### Operating Tips
- As a general rule, leave the thermostat at the highest setting which keeps you comfortable. For each degree lower, your air conditioner uses about 5% more electricity.
 - If you are away for a weekend, turn the unit off. If away for several hours, set on FAN ONLY.
 - If your air conditioner has been shut off during the cool night, give it an early start the next morning, before a new day's heat fills the house. Don't use a colder-than-normal setting to start. That will only make the unit run longer. It will not cool any faster.
 - Draw draperies or lower awnings on the sunny side of the house to keep out the sun's heat.
 - On hot days, close the fresh air regulator and do not draw in hot outside air. Open the regulator on cool nights.
 - Don't block air conditioning vents with furniture or draperies.
 - If you have a central system, don't try to maintain different temperatures in different rooms (by closing air outlets.) You may unbalance the system.

- ### Maintenance Tips
- Have a yearly checkup of equipment. This may help avoid costly repairs later.

- ### These steps can help also
- Clean the filter at least every two weeks.
 - Keep shrubs from blocking air circulation to outside air conditioning units.

- ### Insulation is important
- Storm windows, weather-stripping and window caulking help keep heat out in summer, keep cold out in winter.
 - Insulation is most important. If your home is not well insulated you should consider the savings on heating bills as well as air conditioning that are possible with added insulation.

- ### Avoid extra heat when possible
- An exhaust fan, externally vented, can help rid your kitchen of cooking heat.
 - Lights, TV, and most other appliances, generate heat. Turn them off when they're not in use.

- ### What to look for if you're buying an air conditioner
- An attic exhaust fan will help prevent the build-up of intense heat above your living area, reducing the load on air conditioning equipment.

- Be sure the air conditioner you buy has proper cooling capacity for your needs. Too little won't get the job done. Too much may prevent adequate dehumidification and you will feel clammy.
- Cooling capacity is measured in "Btu's." Operating cost is measured in "watts." Generally, the more Btu's per watt, the more efficient the unit.
- Be sure your wiring is adequate to handle new equipment. Units rated at more than 7½ amps may require a separate electrical circuit. Most units over 10,000 Btu capacity operate on 240 volts and will require a separate circuit.
- When you talk to your dealer, have the information that will help him recommend the right unit for you: Size and location of rooms. Size of windows. Insulation. Exposure to direct sunlight? What rooms receive direct sunlight?

Better crime figures needed

Gratification at the decrease in serious crimes reported by the Federal Bureau of Investigation is tempered by Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson's views on the general subject of crime reporting. The good news issued by the FBI came on the heels of an interview in which Richardson questioned the validity of the agency's Uniform Crime Report statistics.

Measured against the figures in previous years, the current report is heartening. For the first time in 17 years, the FBI says, there was a decline - only 2 per cent, but a decline all the same - in the overall total of serious crimes reported to police in the United States.

There were increases in some important categories. The incidence of rape was up 11 per cent, of murder 5 per cent, of assaults 7 per cent. There were reductions, though, in various kinds of theft: robberies, burglaries, larcenies, auto theft (the latter down by 6 per cent). This was sufficient to make the grand total 5.8 million serious crimes reported by local law enforcement agencies in 1972, compared with 5.9 million the year before.

In his interview prior to release of the Uniform Crime Report statistics, Richardson essentially reaffirmed what others have often said in the past. This is that a great many crimes go unreported and do not show up in the official total. "We have no mechanism in place," he said, "for measuring the volume of crime committed."

It is good to learn from the attorney general that methods of compiling more accurate crime data are being developed. Comparisons on the present basis are instructive. But a clearer picture of crime, reported and unreported, is needed if an adequate counterattack is to be mounted.

THESE DAYS. . by John Chamberlain

A snake-bitten administration

When Clark Clifford, in his infamously famous op. ed. piece in the New York Times, called for the double resignation of President Nixon and Vice President Agnew in order to hand the White House back to the liberals despite the 1972 election mandate, he faced a seemingly immovable stumbling block. Spiro Agnew had not been touched by Watergate. So who or what could make him resign?

Now, however by a fearful symmetry, mud has been splattered on Agnew. In the press conference which the Vice President called to affirm his innocence of the charge of being involved in kickbacks when he was Governor of Maryland, the word "resign" was bandied about by the reporters. If Clark Clifford had been masterminding the script, it couldn't have been more pat.

The Federal investigation of Agnew coming on top of the Senatorial inquisition into Nixon's connections with Watergate surely couldn't have been anything more than a nasty coincidence. But what the liberals will try to make of it won't be coincidence. Agnew will have to come absolutely clean, presenting all his records and disavowing any reliance on such things as Executive privilege and separation of the powers, if he is to sustain his credibility as the "Mr. Candor" of a snake-bitten Administration. Even the smallest lingering suspicion of Agnew guilt will alter Clark Clifford's fantasy into a substantial debater's position.

Fortunately, Agnew began well by calling that immediate press conference. It is what Vic Gold, his former press aide, wanted him to do. It is impossible to meet Agnew face to face and not be impressed with his appearance of absolute candor and honesty. Where it could be "tricky Dicky," it has never been "tricky Spiro." But, as of the moment of writing, Agnew reserves the right to discuss the question of the release of his papers with his counsel. Even this hesitance won't do; a man's financial records aren't in the same category as Nixon's tapes, which presumably recorded all manner of indiscreet remarks that had nothing to do with Watergate or its cover-up.

The worst thing about the one-two punches that fate has thrown at the Nixon Administration is that they are keeping the country from contemplating the real crime of the century. This crime has been perpetrated by a self-righteous majority of the U.S. Senate. Until Watergate deflected his energies, Nixon had the Indochinese situation well in hand. Dr. Henry Kissinger had shrewdly utilized the Soviet-Red Chinese split to get 500,000 American soldiers out of Vietnam without delivering Saigon to wither of the two big Communist powers. The POW's had been brought back from captivity. Hanoi's recuperative ability had been drastically set back by the bombing. And Nixon still retained his power of maneuver, his ability to put force behind his peacemaking diplomacy, by virtue of his right, as Commander-in-Chief in a war that had not yet been concluded, to order out the B-52s to support local troops who were fighting the anti-Communist battle.

The Senate, manifesting a stupidity that has hardly been seen since British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain went to Munich, has used the confusion provoked by Watergate to take all sense of logic out of U.S. foreign policy. Even the low-keyed "Nixon Doctrine" needs some ultimate sanction. This sanction was provided by the B-52s, which have been our only answer to the Soviet and Maoist use of guerillas. But the Senate, led by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, finally forced Nixon to agree to the August 15 cut-off of bombing in Cambodia. The way will soon be cleared for a Red victory in Cambodia, and the Nixon Administration, denied the use of its air power and its mine ships, will have no way of compelling the North Vietnamese to live up to the peace treaty of Jan. 28, 1973.

Whether this portends the loss of Southeast Asia to the Communists is a question that will depend on the resilience of Thailand, the military abilities and the confidence of the Saigon government, and the "neutralist" williness of Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk should Peking insist on his restoration in Phnom Penh. But if the free countries of Southwest Asia do manage to survive what Senator Mansfield and his gravediggers have tried to decree for them, it will be due to their own initiatives.

Mansfield is supposed to be a student of history, but he seems unaware that some 90 per cent of Japan's oil supply moves through the Indian Ocean around the Indochinese and Singapore bend. The punchless policy that the Senate has foisted on Nixon must lead straight to a nuclear buildup in Japan and the revival of the Japanese navy. That may not be what Mansfield wants, but it is probably what he is going to get.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

The issues of your paper during the County Fair carried news and stories about the entrants in the various animal and other accomplishments by boys and girls as well as adults in all phases of public interest and endeavor.

This is as it should be so that their accomplishments can be awarded and brought to the attention of the public.

However I wish to call attention and credit to the Pro Life booth that was in the Mahan Building. The display may have been shocking to some people but this was the intent.

Unless the public is made aware that abortion is murder and those who would justify abortion as a means of population control would also advocate euthanasia.

The people in the Pro Life booth asked those who stopped to sign letters to the Ohio House and Senate, and I understand the response was very gratifying. Many people from out of town said their ministers had advised them to stop at the booth and sign the letters. The sponsors of the booth wish to thank all those who stopped and signed the letters as well as all those who showed interest.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I've read you since I was in the seventh grade. Now I'm a high school grad, married, and I just gave birth to a lively baby girl. You even announced it for me.

I've always wanted to establish myself in society, and this is the only way I know how to do it. First of all,

I'm not going to cut anybody down or complain. I just want everybody in Fayette County to know just how happy and content I am in my role as a housewife, wife, and mother.

I love the world, this little town, and everybody in it. I wouldn't want to change it for anything. Everybody I talk to is so friendly. People seem to smile more and more each day.

A lady I saw on the corner of the street the other day dropped a sack, and a long-haired guy (who would have probably been considered a delinquent to her) helped her with her packages.

In the store the other day I gave the cashier too much change by mistake. She didn't realize it at first, but as I started to walk out of the store, she came and placed a quarter in my hand. She could've easily pocketed it and I wouldn't've known.

See, I just gave you 2 good examples of how wonderful people are and can be. There is a lot of bad, but I think there's a lot more good. When I help somebody or smile when I meet people on the street, it makes me feel so good inside that I want to tell everybody about, so now I'm sharing all this with you in hopes that there'll be more smiles than frowns in the future.

The world is a beautiful gift from God. I think the least we can do is take the time to enjoy it.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Photo's a better souvenir than guilt

DEAR ABBY: I am a maid in a first class hotel. (Please don't mention the city.) I took something from a very famous person who stayed here. I have admired this person for years and only wanted a souvenir.

What I took may be valuable, and now my conscience is bothering me. I am not a common thief, but I'm not brave enough to confess, and now I don't know what to do. Please help me. I trust you.

TROUBLED MIND
DEAR TROUBLED: Go to your public library and look for that person's name and address in "Who's Who in America." If you find it, male back whatever you took. If you can't find the name and address, write to me and I will find it for you. (You can trust me.) And if you ever again want a "souvenir" from a famous person, ask for an autographed picture.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a fairly large office. One of the girls who works here is being married soon, so a coworker suggested we girls give her a bridal shower. (The bride-to-be is 30 years old and has been married before. So has her fiance.)

The bride made up a list of "suggested shower gifts," which she mimeographed and distributed to all the girls in the office. This list is titled "CAN USE" and there are three pages of "gift suggestions" (typed, single-spaced indicated brand names preferred, and "where-to-purchase." (She listed everything imaginable from a cork-screw to a king-sized bedspread ! ! !)

She even submitted dimensions of her living room, dining room, bedroom and bath indicating rugs are needed. When I saw this list I was turned off completely and decided not to attend. I declined the shower and told the girls why. Was I wrong?

SOURD IN CALIFORNIA
DEAR SOURD: No. Since you felt that the purpose of this shower was to "soak" the guests, I don't blame you. DEAR ABBY: I just had a terrible experience. I invited the gas man into our mobile home for a cup of coffee. He had been filling our tank for about a years, and he seemed so nice.

I had just made a fresh pot of coffee and asked him if he wanted to join me for a cup. (My husband had left for work.)

When this man got inside he sat at the table and kept looking at me funny. I felt uncomfortable but kept talking and sipping coffee. Then he said he'd never seen a mobile home like mine before, so I offered to show him around. He kind of cornered me in the baby's room, but I managed to get out of that situation and back into the kitchen.

I kept praying someone would call me. Finally, I edged toward the door, and opened it, and told him I had a lot of work to do. He left reluctantly.

Abby, I am only 22. Am I naive? Was I wrong in inviting him in for coffee? Do most men who talk to housewives take this as an invitation for something else?

Was I being forward? I blame myself. I swear I only meant to be friendly.

FRIGHTENED
DEAR FRIGHTENED: Perhaps he mistook your friendliness for something more. Most men who deal with housewives are straight and strictly all business. But it's best to play it safe and keep your distance.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Aug. 14, the 226th day of 1973. There are 139 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced Japan's unconditional surrender. It was the end of World War II.

On this date—
In 1784, the first Russian colony in Alaska was founded on Kodiak Island.
In 1848, the Oregon territory was organized.

In 1900, the Boxer Rebellion in China ended as U.S. Marines helped capture Peking.

In 1941, during World War II it was announced that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill had met at sea and signed the Atlantic Charter.

In 1947, the United States cancelled about $1 billion in debts owed by Italy.

In 1964, black children who registered at formerly all-white schools in Biloxi became the first of their race to break public school segregation barriers in Mississippi.

One year ago: An East German airliner crashed in a suburb of East Berlin, killing 156 persons.

Today's birthdays: Circus impresario John Ringling North is 70. Singer Connie Smith is 32.

'Discount' brokerage houses rise

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Several relatively new firms across the nation are providing the investment business' answer to the discount store.

These "discount" brokerage houses say they will buy or sell stocks for investors at commission rates ranging from 20 to 80 per cent less than larger brokers — members of the major stock exchanges — must charge under exchange rules.

As with the discount store, the cut-rate broker generally limits himself to the essentials — namely, the execution of a customer's order.

"We cut out all the frills, carpeting, and vice presidents," says Lawrence H. Weiss, president of Odd Lot Securities, Ltd., in New York.

Most of these firms, which number about a dozen around the nation, have only a handful of employees. They typically have no research department and accept only cash-paying customers. "If you want advice or a quote, call Merrill Lynch. If you want to place an order, call us," says one discount broker.

Since these discount houses are not stock exchange members, they are not bound by the exchange's minimum commission rules. When a customer places an order, the discount broker will shop around in the over-the-counter market and on the New York or other exchanges for the best price.

If the best price, say, is on the Big Board, the broker has to place the order through a NYSE member and charge the customer regular Big Board rates. But if he can get a good price from the third market, where many Big Board securities are traded over the counter, he can offer a sizable commission discount.

For 50 shares of AT&T, for instance, assuming a price of $50 a share, a brokerage house belonging to the NYSE is required to charge $42.50 in commission. Some of the discounters will charge anywhere from $25 to $34.

Most of these firms, however, tend to discourage odd lot trades of less than 100 shares, and shy away from the really small investor.

"One of our main problems is that people don't really believe they can pay less than NYSE rates. They think we're illegal," says John Rose, president of Chicago-based Rose & Co.

"And then there is the little old lady who thinks she is pulling a fast one on somebody by coming to us and selling her AT&T," he adds. "But most of the customers are people who have a little savvy on the market and know what they want — small banks, businessmen, investment counselors."

A $20 saving on a $2,500 order may seem hardly worth the effort, but at a time when the NYSE is seeking to raise its minimum commission rates, the discount houses are attracting more and more notice.

County receives August payment

Fayette County received $5,113.50 in Local Government Fund money for the month of August, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. A total of $3,452,845.62 was distributed to Ohio's 88 counties, and 318 cities and villages levying income taxes.

The August distribution was some $1,450,000 lower than the $4.9 million distributed to local governments in July under this program.

Thus far in 1973, the counties, and cities and villages having income taxes, have received a total of $37,667,743.36 in Local Government Fund money. The money is derived monthly from taking 3.5 per cent of state collections of sales, corporation and personal income taxes.

Use of the percentage factor causes the amount of money available for distribution to local political subdivisions to fluctuate monthly, Ferguson said.

Ferguson said the state in July (the month used for the August distribution) collected $65,592,381.75 in sales taxes, $2,366,981.56 in corporation taxes, and $30,693,979 in personal income taxes.

Nudity views liberalized

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A recent survey indicates American attitudes toward premarital sex and some nudity have become much more liberal than they were four years ago, says the Gallup Poll.

In the July 6-9 survey, 48 per cent of the 1,544 persons questioned said they thought premarital sex is wrong. In a 1969 survey, 68 per cent held that opinion.

Forty-three per cent said it was not wrong when asked: "Do you think it is wrong for people to have sex relations before marriage or not?" The remainder had no opinion.

In July, 55 per cent of those surveyed said they would be offended by nude pictures in magazines, and 59 per cent thought topless waitresses would offend them. The 1969 survey showed 73 per cent would be offended by magazine nudes; 76 per cent by topless waitresses.

Garden Club annual picnic held in Leesburg

Twenty members and one guest, Mrs. Laurence Layman, of the Fayette Garden Club met Friday for their annual picnic at the Leesburg Community Hall. Hostesses were Mrs. Walter Thompson, Mrs. George Trimmer, Miss Norma Dodd, and Mrs. C. S. Kelley.

Mrs. Robert Meriweather, president, and Mrs. George Trimmer, flower show chairman, expressed their appreciation for the support and participation from the members who made arrangements for the Fair Flower Show.

The 20 members exhibited gladioluses from their gardens. Some of the outstanding specimens were All-America Winners—Miss America, Frostie Pink, Grape Juice, Snow Top and Cascade.

The arrangement for the month, "Glad to See You" was arranged by Miss Arbana Roush. She used a single gladiolus, "Miss America" in a low container in a vertical design.

Mrs. Meriweather conducted the program, "Garden Memories" by asking each member to express their observation, knowledge, disappointments, surprises, and pleasures which they have lived through during their gardening experiences. The members responded with a variety of subjects, propagation of plants, leadership in the club, projects of the club, and the early Fayette County Fair Flower Shows, dating back to 1939.

Plans were completed to attend "Gardeners' Day Out" at Don Scott Field, Ohio State University in Columbus, and several members announced their plans to attend the outdoor historical drama, "Tecumseh" on Sugar Loaf Mountain, Chillicothe.

After the short business meeting, Mrs. Meriweather read correspondence from the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The next meeting will be held September 14, at Anderson's Restaurant. Hostesses will be Mrs. Herbert Wilson, Mrs. Arthur Finley, Mrs. P.C. Harlow, Mrs. Kenneth Craig, and Mrs. George Stitt. The program topic will be "Bulbs—Beauty to Come" by Mrs. Ralph Hays. The design will be "Dreams of Tomorrow" by Mrs. Kenneth Bush.

98 gridders report for opening drills

Heat, humidity and early afternoon rain showers not withstanding, high school football practice opened Monday morning at both Washington C.H. and Miami Trace high schools. A total of 98 gridders are practicing in the two camps.

Predictable enthusiasm was present as both teams opened pre-season practice with two workouts and with first-day morale at its usual high, both teams were able to report productive sessions.

THE TWO-A-DAY drills began right on schedule and will continue throughout the next two weeks until school starts.

At Miami Trace, new head coach Fred Zechman welcomed 50 hopefuls, while veteran Washington C.H. mentor Maurice Pfeifer greeted 48 prospective candidates.

The emphasis is on physical conditioning in both Fayette County football camps even though candidates from both schools have been involved in voluntary conditioning programs since mid-July. The Ohio High School Athletic Association requires four days of conditioning once practice officially opens.

The Miami Trace coaching staff is concentrating on rebuilding after a total of 14 seniors were via graduation and several held key positions in the Panthers' 7-3 season a year ago.

Youth also dominates Zechman's first Miami Trace training camp as 25 of the 50 prospective candidates are sophomores.

Zechman singled out the performances of tackle John Woodrow, defensive back Dusty Ruth, guard Greg Wieland and running back Doug Baker following Monday's opening drills.

The Panthers are working out at 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. with classroom sessions sandwiched between those drills.

Conditioning highlighted Washington C.H.'s first official practice session as Pfeifer and his assistant coaches watched 34 of the 48 candidates complete the Lions' traditional mile run.

JEFF BROWN and David Peyton led Monday's conditioning requirement by completing the mile in five minutes and 27 seconds, which is the fastest ever time for Blue Lion football can-

Myers notes improvement in Bengal passing attack

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Wide receiver Chip Myers, who caught 57 passes in 1972 for the Cincinnati Bengals, wants to get away from the crowd.

Myers was the second leading receiver in the American Football Conference of the National Football League last year and played in the Pro Bowl.

Coach Paul Brown, in Myers' sixth pro season here, calls the receiver a man with good hands "with the ability to catch in a crowd."

This year, hopes Myers, his receptions won't be confined to the sidelines

Blocked kick sparks Detroit over Chiefs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City's Jan Stenerud had his first extra point in seven years blocked and as a result the Detroit Lions edged the Chiefs 17-16 in a National Football League preseason game Monday night.

"I don't know what happened," Stenerud said of the play by Lem Barney, who broke through the left side and blocked the kick with 1:18 left. Barney knew what happened.

"It was just a basic rush," said the seven-year cornerback from Jackson State. "Mike Weger and I shot in simultaneously."

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram called it "a ridiculous way to lose." Detroit Coach Don McCafferty said it "was a great effort on the part of the extra point team. We could have let up and figured it was a tie game."

The attempt capped an 82-yard scoring drive put together by Len Dawson the first time he took the Kansas City quarterback helm this season.

Dawson started his 17th professional campaign when he entered the contest with 6:32 left and the Chiefs down 17-10. In 18 plays he hit on seven of 13 passes for 57 yards. His 10-yard scoring toss to Elmo Wright came on fourth down.

Greg Landry took over the Detroit quarterback role in the second half and led the Lions to victory.

Elsewhere in the NFL, three Oakland players emerged from the Raiders' 27-26 victory Saturday over Dallas with injuries. Offensive tackle Bob Brown suffered a broken hand, linebacker Joe Carroll sustained a broken finger and defensive tackle Art Thoms strained a knee.

"We'll know more later about using any of them Saturday," said Oakland Coach John Madden, looking ahead to the Raiders' upcoming game with Los Angeles.

Linebacker John Douglas of New York suffered a pulled hamstring muscle during the Giants 13-7 triumph on down and out patterns and that he'll get into long passes.

Myers, who caught two passes for 30 yards Saturday in Cincinnati's 45-21 rout of the Philadelphia Eagles, said the Bengals "will surprise a lot of people with long passes this year."

He explained that quarterbacks Ken Anderson and Virgil Carter, "contrary to what a lot of people have been saying, can throw the long pass."

He said offensive improvements will enable Cincinnati to open up their passing game this year.

"This year we're establishing our flanker game. We have some real fast flankers this year. We used to have a little trouble there.

"Anyway, with the flankers I think I'll lose a lot of double coverage and be in more one-on-one situations with the defenders. It's just a matter of calling the plays."

Myers, 6-foot-5½, 240 pounds, "would like to catch 40 or 50 passes."

"But, as far as setting any goals like being the top receiver in the league, I'm more interested in catching passes that will help the team ... maybe win us the championship."

Willie Stargell doesn't plan to watch any television in the early days of October and Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson doesn't expect him to.

It's not that the Pittsburgh Pirates' slugger has anything against TV. It's just that Stargell doesn't like the thought of watching other little men in knickers, shirts and caps playing on his screen for big money.

"Last year we had the best record in baseball and ended up watching the World Series at home," Stargell said after smacking his 34th homer and scoring another run in the Pirates nationally televised 3-2 squeaker over the Reds. "This year our record isn't so good, but maybe we'll be there."

Anderson is more certain. "The workouts from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. and noon until 1:30 p.m.

Both teams will pull on the jerseys and pads Thursday, but will not begin full-scale contact until Friday morning.

The Atlanta Falcons trimmed running backs Henry Brandon and Ray Clarke from their roster and signed veteran running back Eddie Ray. Ray showed up in camp 21 days late and Coach Norm Van Brocklin said the former Louisiana State player would be fined at the rate of $100 per day.

Houston linebacker Garland Boyette, who retired from playing last season and joined the coaching staff, is back in uniform.

Coach Bill Peterson said Boyette, who has been with Houston since 1966, agreed to play again to bolster the Oilers' middle linebacker position.

Pittsburgh plays at Philadelphia Thursday and Washington is at Buffalo Friday in this week's NFL schedule.

Brown finds backfield formula

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Bengals' football coach Paul Brown said Monday he thinks he has found the right backfield formula in Doug Dressler and Charles "Booby" Clark.

In Saturday's 45-21 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, the Cincinnati mentor switched Dressler to halfback and inserted Clark, a rookie, at fullback. He then used veteran halfback Essex Johnson to spot the two.

Brown said he feels the move will make a difference in the Bengal attack. "By using Doug and Charles as starters, that enables us to bring Essex in later on so we can utilize his exceptional speed," Brown said.

Brown said Dressler's good hands as a fullback impresses him. "He's a real armful for any tackler and I think he's done real well since he was a linebacker and tight end in college," Brown said.

Brown said he was impressed with quarterback Ken Anderson's direction of the team Saturday night. He said the third-year signal-caller from Augusta College will get the start again Sunday against the Bengals' arch rivals, The Cleveland Browns.

Against, the Eagles Anderson completed 11 of 12 passes for 143 yards and one touchdown.

Brown said he expects defensive end Sherman White, who is recovering from knee surgery, to be ready for action Sunday against the Browns in Columbus. Safety Tom Casanova, a NFL All-Rookie last year, has reported to camp and will be ready for action Sunday, Brown said.

Protection for Aaron requested by club

ATLANTA (AP) — Henry Aaron will be well protected as he travels on the road with the Atlanta Braves in National League cities.

"It's nothing major. It's rather routine, in fact," said Braves Vice President Dick Cecil Monday, confirming that extra police protection had been requested for Aaron out of town.

Pirates will be there when it's all over," he said.

For the record, the Pirates have not been playing as if they wanted to extend their season beyond the regular schedule. But neither has the rest of the division, which is in jeopardy of having no teams with records on the happy side of .500.

St. Louis is the only club in the National League East with its head above water—61-58— but is sinking fast. The Cardinals' eighth straight loss left the Pirates and their 57-58 record just two games back.

Monday night's victory was a step in that direction as they cooled off a hot Cincinnati club that had won five straight.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Houston Astros shut out the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0; the San Diego Padres nipped the New York Mets 3-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the Montreal Expos 8-5.

Astros 4, Cardinals 0
The St. Louis Cardinals could certainly make a valid case for discrimination as they were handed their eight straight loss and fourth in a row to lefthanded pitchers.

This one was a 4-0 defeat at the left hand of Dave Roberts and the Houston Astros, lowering the Cardinals' record against southpaws to 18-25.

Jim Wynn's homer and Lee May's run-scoring double backed Roberts' five-hit pitching.

Padres 3, Mets 2
Pitcher Jerry Koosman scored a run in the ninth to snap a tie but gave back that run and another in the bottom of the ninth as San Diego rallied for a 3-2 victory over New York.

Dodgers 8, Expos 5
Willie Crawford homered and doubled and drove in four runs to lead Los Angeles to an 8-5 victory over the Expos.

The victory for Claude Osteen, 14-5, enabled the Dodgers to increase their lead in the National League's Western Division to 2½ games over Cincinnati while Montreal remained in third place—three games behind the Eastern Division-leading Cardinals.

Learned professor explains physics of baseball flight

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Bernoulli, Magnus and Venturi. Who are they, baseball fans?

They aren't an expert doubleplay combination. They aren't a super-slugging threesome.

Dr. Stanley Corrsin tosses their names around when he explains why a baseball reacts the way it does after leaving a pitcher's hand.

Dr. Corrsin, a professor at Johns Hopkins University's Mechanical Engineering Department, is an aerodynamicist and a specialist in the field of turbulence.

He never did a controlled study of pitched balls, but Corrsin is a baseball fan and has been quoted widely on why knuckleballs and spitballs do what they do.

TO THE WINNER — Jack Nicklaus and his wife pose with the huge PGA trophy at Cleveland after he won the title at the Canterbury Golf Club. The victory was Nicklaus' 14th major title win to make him the all-time leader, surpassing Bobby Jones' record of 13 major championships.

Opening lead - ten of spades.

A careful declarer never puts all his eggs into one basket when there's a better way of managing his assets.

Consider this deal where South won the spade lead with the ace, drew trumps, cashed the king of diamonds, crossed to dummy with a club to the ace on which East's king fell, cashed the ace of diamonds and led a club.

East showing out, the jig was up. Declarer lost two club tricks and went down one.

It is true that he would have made the slam had he found the clubs divided 2-2 or West with the singleton king or queen. In fact, the odds heavily favored losing only one club trick; and to that extent declarer was unlucky to go down.

But even so, the fact remains that South did not play the hand to the hilt. After winning the ace of spades, he should have led a diamond to the king, a heart to the ten, and cashed the ace of diamonds, discarding a club.

When he then ruffed a diamond, declarer would have learned that the suit was divided 4-3 and that the twelfth trick was now 100 per cent certain. He would ruff the king of spades in dummy, ruff the fourth round of diamonds, draw trumps, return to dummy with a club and discard another club on dummy's fifth diamond. His only loser would be a club.

By adopting this method of play, South would have kept intact his chances of a favorable club division if it developed that the diamonds were divided 5-2 instead of 4-3. In effect, by making allowance for a favorable diamond division, South would have put his chances into two baskets instead of one.

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A Leg Cramp Wakes Him Nightly

I am 42 years old and am in good health except for one problem that bothers me.

It seems that almost every night I am suddenly awakened by a cramp in the calf of my leg that makes me scream out in pain.

I read going to sleep. What can I do about it?

Mrs. M.N., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. N.:

This is a common complaint that can be caused by any one of a variety of conditions.

Anyone who has experienced these sudden spasms of the muscles of the legs or the feet knows how distressing this can be. The spasm may last for only a few minutes, but the anxiety associated with it persists.

A sudden cramp simply means that, for some reason, there has been momentary interference with the normal blood supply to the muscle. Arteries bring blood and oxygen to the leg muscles. When the free flow is interfered with, spasm may occur.

In the elderly, arteriosclerosis is one of the major causes interfering with the normal rapid flow of blood.

Some people may develop a spasm of the legs if their bed sheets bind them down too tightly.

Varicose veins may exist without the usual blue mark evidenced on the skin surface. Deep-seated varicose veins may cause the spasms you describe.

A great many people will complain of muscular spasms and painful cramps while walking. A condition known as Buerger's disease is associated with claudication, an arterial spasm that creates painful cramps of the muscles.

The very first thing you should do is to be examined and see if some underlying ailment is causing your vascular spasms.

Tobacco is a great offender, especially in Buerger's disease. The accumulated concentration of tars, toxins, and nicotine in tobacco plays an important role in these painful cramps.

If you do smoke, you should first try to eliminate tobacco. There is an unfounded idea that when a cramp wakes you in the middle of the night you should pop out of bed, jump up and down, and slap the muscle as hard as you can. If you have tried this then you know that if only serves to accentuate the pain.

For a long time, quinine as an antispasmodic has been recommended. Apparently, for some people it is effective. If your doctor prescribes it, you may find it helpful.

Many people find that when a spasm occurs, there is a simple movement that can ease the pain.

Lie flat on your back. Forcefully bring your toes upward, pointing them toward your head. Strain to keep the toes in this position for at least a minute. The spasm will often disappear.

The application of moist, warm towels to the cramped muscle can be beneficial, too.

In this day of sophisticated propaganda, we must never assume that our image of the President is necessarily accurate. Gary Allen, in his recent book on President Nixon, suggests that he is a man behind a mask. Allen has more than one book on Mr. Nixon and the Nixon Administration. This Watergate thing has created much interest in this area and there is no book better, in our opinion to use as a primer on understanding Watergate and the present administration than RICHARD NIXON - THE MAN BEHIND THE MASK. Allen does a great job of removing the mask. This book is our best seller these days.

Most of those who read the Nixon book, next turn to Cleon Skousen's THE NAKED CAPITALIST for further information. Now, dad, let me tell you something: this is one for the books! Skousen's book will go further to let you in on what's going on than any single book I know. You can read it in an evening. You should read it your first free evening.

The famous economist, Eliot Janeway, has said: "It takes genius plus perseverance to achieve financial weakness from a position of economic strength, but Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz has been equal to the challenge." Janeway could have said the same thing about food. It takes all kinds of genius and bogs of perseverance to produce a shortage of flour, pork, and beans in the United States of America. This administration has proven itself equal to that challenge.

Air conditioning contract awarded by county

After postponing action for a week, the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday awarded a contract for air conditioning the Common Pleas Courtroom to Bogen Heating and Air Conditioning, Columbus. The contract was approved 2-1, with Ray Warner dissenting.

Bogen's bid was $6,707. Bids were opened Aug. 2, but action was delayed while the commissioners examined different air conditioning systems offered by the bidders.

Warner said he voted against the motion not because he opposed installation of an air-conditioning system, but because he favored awarding the contract to Washington Heating and Plumbing, Ohio 38-N.

Commissioners accepted an $8,500 performance bond from Miller Maintenance, which contracted with the county to clean, paint and repair the court house and the county welfare building.

Lot 244 of Millwood Subdivision No. 2 was made part of the Fayette County Highway Complex. The land, adjacent to the county garage, was recently purchased by the county.

Commissioners appropriated $320 for the purchase of furniture at the children's home, and $272 to cover a pay raise granted to Charles Brown, courthouse custodian.

Fayette County Dog Warden Reginald Davis filed 36 reports.

Train derails near Van Wert

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — An Erie-Lackawana freight train left the tracks here today, officials said.

They said no one was injured. The train, bound to Marion, Ohio, from Huntington, Ind., derailed less than a mile east of Ohio 116 in the southeast corner of Van Wert County, officials said.

They said the train was carrying a flammable substance used in gasoline, but that there was no fire or leakage. Workmen were called to the scene to remove the wreckage, which blocked rail traffic in both directions.

Cause of the derailment was not immediately known.

2 break-ins, vandalism are probed

Two reported burglaries and vandalism incident were investigated by police and sheriff's departments Monday.

A burglar entered the Club 22, CCC Highway-W, sometime Sunday night and made off with about $45 in change. Sheriff's deputies said the intruder broke a pane from a window on the west side of the building, then unlocked the window to gain entry.

A cigarette machine and a coin operated pool table were forced open and a box containing $5 in pennies were removed from the bar area. The theft was discovered by the janitor Monday morning.

Edward Helt, of 427 W. Elm St.,

reported that someone had punctured four tires on his car Friday night. Helt said the incident occurred while the car was parked on the Lafayette Inn lot. Damage was set at $140.

Martha Shaw, of 324½ Broadway, reported someone had entered the apartment at 12 Steen Ct. into which she was moving, and removed several household items. Loss in the Monday afternoon burglary was set at $72.

Damage minor in 3 accidents

One driver was cited in three traffic mishaps investigated in the city overnight. Property damage was minor.

Robert B. Johnson, 31, Dayton, was cited for reckless operation after his truck struck a parked semi-trailer in front of 908 S. Fayette St. early Tuesday.

9.1 % of county exempt from property tax

Most real property in Fayette County was subject to taxation in 1973, according to a report recently issued by the Ohio Public Expenditure Council. The report said 9.1 per cent of the county's real property was exempted from taxation.

Exempted property in the county was valued at $7.2 million. Governmental property accounted for the bulk of the exemptions ($5.6 million), while property of churches ($1.4 million) and charitable institutions, graveyards, cemeteries and monuments ($200,000) accounting for the rest.

The exempted property valuation was $55,550 more than that of 1972 exemptions, an increase of .8 per cent. Valuation of taxable property in the county rose by 1.4 per cent.

Statewide exemptions increased by $151.8 million, or 3.1 per cent, to $5.1 billion. Valuation of taxable property in the state increased five per cent.

Kiwanis holds family picnic

Monday's regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club was pre-empted by the annual family picnic held at the Howard Ford farm, Palmer Rd. A large turnout of Kiwanis members and their wives were served roast beef, corn, soft drinks and ice cream.

Gerry Begin led the group in singing, and the evening ended with a volleyball game.

The next meeting of Kiwanis will be Aug. 20. The guest speaker will be Bill Trimmer of Fayette Memorial Hospital. He will present a program on "Inhalation Therapy."

Police, fire applicants face more examinations

Four persons who passed written civil service examinations recently must now pass a written examination and a physical examination before they can be appointed to the police or fire departments. Three police and one fire department applicant passed the written test.

The Board turned over bad debts in the amount of $5,390.63 to a collection agency.

The July summary of hospital activity disclosed that there were 364 admissions, 354 discharges, a total of 2,102 in-patient days (67.80 persons per day), 50 births, 157 new born days and 11 deaths.

The hospital was at 77.93 per cent occupancy, with 86.10 per cent occupancy in medical and surgical. The average length of stay was 5.93 days, while medical and surgical patients stayed an average of 7.28 days.

There were 856 X-rays given, 4,650 laboratory tests, 56 major surgeries, and 116 minor surgeries. The emergency room treated 1,191 persons, physical therapy was given to 199 persons, and there were 407 respiratory treatments administered.

PARENTS OF MISSING YOUTH — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, parents of Mark Scott, 18, who disappeared in April, 1972, look over newspapers depicting developments in the investigation of the homosexual pandering and murder ring that has turned up the bodies of 27 teen-agers at Houston, Tex., thus far. Scott expressed disgust with the Houston police department saying, "they could of helped and didn't." They fear their son is dead. (AP Wirephoto)

Authorities seek murder indictments

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities sought indictments today against two touse-haired teenagers charged in the largest mass murder in the nation's history.

The recovery of four additional bodies Monday at a beach on the Gulf Coast brought to 27 the number of victims found since last Wednesday. Digging for more bodies has stopped for now.

"We have recovered what they said was there. We're through," Capt. G. W. Woods of the Jefferson County sheriff's office said Monday night. Digging also stopped in Galveston and Chambers counties, all of which converge at the High Island coastal area where the last excavations were made.

In Houston, a reliable source confirmed that the Harris County district attorney's office plans to ask a grand jury today to indict Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David O. Brooks, 18, for murder.

Brooks, Henley and Dean Allen Corll, 33, who Henley said he shot to death last Wednesday, allegedly were involved in a homosexual torture-murder ring.

Brooks and Henley are being held by police under $100,000 bonds. Henley has been charged with two slayings in Houston and three in San Augustine County and has told police he took part in nine killings. Brooks was charged with one murder in Houston but has said he did not kill anyone.

Henley appeared briefly in court Monday. Charles Melder, Henley's lawyer, asked state District Court Judge George Walker to order a psychiatric examination for his client.

Earlier, Melder said he plans to plead that Henley is not guilty by reason of insanity.

In a news conference Monday, Houston Police Chief Herman Short answered charges that his department had been lax in not discovering the series of murders of teen-agers that stretched over a three-year period.

The criticism has come from some parents of missing teenaged boys. Many of the youths believed slain come from one neighborhood and were acquainted with Henley. The critical parents say police should have seen the connection.

Short said the number of missing youths was masked by the 5,200 runaways reported in Houston in 1972 and even higher numbers the two previous years.

Girl brutally beaten, raped hitchhiking across Indiana

PLAINFIELD, Ind. (AP) — "It looks like they tried to beat her to death," says Police Chief Lee E. Miller, describing a teenage hitchhiker who was beaten and raped. "All her teeth are gone, most of her gums have been beaten out, and part of her jawbone is missing."

The 18-year-old East Providence, R.I., girl, Patricia McDewitt, remained in serious condition today at Marion County General Hospital.

The girl was kidnapped late Sunday night by two men and a woman as she and a companion hitchhiked on the west side of Indianapolis, police said.

She had been beaten and raped and was found nude Monday afternoon at the edge of a cornfield, 20 miles west of here, police said.

"Evidently she put up one hell of a fight, or else they took special delight in torture-beating her," Miller said. "Her face is so badly beaten she won't be able to talk for quite a few days."

Her companion, Stephen Baker, 17, Grand Ledge, Mich., told police he and the girl were driven to the south side of Plainfield, about 10 miles west of Indianapolis, where one of the men pulled a gun and asked for Baker's money.

He said his hands were tied and he was beaten with a long-barreled pistol before the assailants drove away with the girl.

At the hospital Monday, police said the girl wrote out her name and the names and address of her parents. The parents were expected to arrive in Indianapolis today.

Baker required 24 stitches in the head. He had two teeth knocked out and one eye was swollen shut.

HORST LICHTENFELS, Touring the world on his bicycle, visited Washington C.H. Monday. The Wiesbaden, West Germany native is in the home stretch of a three-year journey that has taken him 47,000 miles, 30,000 of them by bicycle. He said he was making the trip as an unofficial good will ambassador and as a supporter of Boy Scouts, with which he is involved.

His travels have taken him through Europe, Africa, Asia and North America. He expects to reach New York in about a month, and will travel home by ocean liner.

Lichtenfels said he has been surprised by the fact that not all Americans are rich. He explained most Germans' image of modern Americans is based on the free-spending habits of G.I.'s in Germany.

Lichtenfels spoke to Boy Scout Troop 229 Monday night, recalling some of his experiences in his world tour. He was presented some scouting memorabilia to add to his already large collection.

MALCOLM POTTER, son of Mrs. Martha Beatty Potter, of Los Angeles, Calif., formerly of Washington C.H., was a winner on the TV show Hollywood Squares Monday morning. Several residents of Washington C.H. saw the program and recognized Potter. He attended elementary school here, is a graduate of a college in Syracuse, N.Y., and is enrolled in law school at Los Angeles College. He is married and the father of two children. Potter is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Beatty, 804 Columbus Ave.

See U.N. split over censure of Israelis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — All 15 members of the U.N. Security Council agree that Israel should be censured for forcing down an Arab airliner last weekend. But a split may develop over Arab demands for punitive action.

Debate continues today, and a vote is not expected before Thursday.

The United States, Israel's traditional backer, indicated it was ready to join in a censure motion as the 15-nation council opened the debate Monday. But a U.S. spokesman said his delegation would oppose any resolution going beyond censure.

Lebanon, the owner of the airliner, hoped to negotiate a compromise resolution that would get U.S. support and still carry some form of penalty or threat of penalty against Israel.

Israeli jets intercepted the plane over Beirut Friday night and diverted it to a military airfield in Israel in hopes of capturing George Habash, the leader of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, and three other guerrilla leaders. The four were not aboard.

Lebanese Ambassador Edouard Ghorra and other Arab speakers told the council that the interception was an unprecedented act of "state terrorism." The Israelis "have either sunk to the level of hijackers of have elevated hijacking to a state policy," Ghorra said.

Lebanon, Egypt and the Soviet Union called for sanctions against Israel. A draft resolution under discussion would ask the International Civil Aviation Organization, a U.N. agency that regulates commercial air traffic, to take "adequate measures against Israel" to insure the safety of civil aviation. It also would threaten action by the Security Council if Israel interfered again with foreign air traffic.

Israeli Ambassador Josef Tekoah told the council that Israel had acted in justified self-defense because the United Nations and the world community were failing to combat "the plague of terrorism sweeping across the world."

Gilligan says he'd debate with Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan said Tuesday he would "absolutely" welcome a debate with former Gov. James Rhodes, a gubernatorial candidate in next year's election.

In a short news conference, Gilligan reiterated he had full confidence in Bennett J. Cooper, director of the Department of Correction and Rehabilitation.

"I cannot make any judgment on Warden Whealon (at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility) because I have no reports to judge Mr. Whealon on," Gilligan said.

Gilligan said he would not favor recognizing the Ohio Prisoners Labor Union because "I don't see any role for a prisoners union. It's absurd on the face of it."

On a legislative issue, Gilligan said he was hopeful the Ohio General Assembly would pass ethics legislation he submitted when it returns later this month. Gilligan said the ethics bill is "right up to the lip now."

Price hikes further pinch pocketbooks

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
The pocketbook pinch worsened during the first two weeks of August as the nation prepared for further price hikes with Monday's debut of Phase 4, an Associated Press marketbasket shows.

The AP has been keeping tabs on 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities across the country since March 1, rechecking the prices at the beginning of each month with special surveys in between.

A check made Monday showed fresh price rises on top of already-healthy increases that turned up earlier.

The AP surveyed the prices in 12 cities Monday. The prices in Providence, R.I., normally the 13th city in the marketbasket, were unavailable because stores were closed due to a state holiday in honor of VJ Day.

The survey showed that, from July 31 to Aug. 13, 22 per cent of the 180 items checked in the 12 cities went up in price; 8 per cent went down in price; 57 per cent were unchanged; and 13 per cent were not available on one of the two check dates.

An earlier check showed that 17 per cent of the items in the 12 cities went up in price between July 23 and July 31. Six per cent went down during that period; 65 per cent were unchanged; and 12 per cent were unavailable.

The results sounded like a broken record: eggs and pork chops led the list of higher-price items again.

Food prices, except for beef, have been rising ever since President Nixon announced in July that processors and sellers could pass on increases in raw

Ohio Bell rate hike still fought

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rang in a $98 million series of rate increases across Ohio today, although a Cleveland opponent of the hikes vowed to fight for a rollback.

The series of rate increases mean more expensive dialing for Ohioans in a host of areas—including monthly phone bills, direct-dial long distance, unlisted numbers, installation and operator-handled calls.

But Cleveland Councilman Dennis J. Kucinich, who filed as an intervenor in the original rate hearings, said he would carry his opposition to the federal courts if necessary to prevent the hikes.

Kucinich contended the new rates will be discriminatory since Clevelanders' phone bills will be hiked by about $1.40 a month for single line service while other metropolitan areas in the state will rise by about $1.15 to $1.20.

The Cleveland increase will bring single line phone service here to $9.25 a month, compared to $8 a month in Columbus, $7.80 in Dayton, Akron and Toledo, and $7.45 in Youngstown.

The differing rates are based on the number of the toll-free calls that can be made from a given phone, but Kucinich claims the system really means Clevelanders subsidize phone service elsewhere in the state.

Kucinich said he would ask the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio first for a rehearing but that—expecting denial of that request—his lawyers also were drafting an injunction request for the Ohio Supreme Court.

If that also were unsuccessful, Kucinich said he would "immediately appeal to the federal courts for an injunction on the basis that the PUCO decision deprives Cleveland area phone subscribers of equal protection of Ohio law."

The increase, cut from an original

requested hike of $168 million, was approved by PUCO earlier, but the company said it did not receive final approval to implement the rates until Monday. They went into effect at midnight.

Bruce Galloway, commercial manager for the company in Washington C.H., said the new rates are "usage sensitive." He said that Ohio Bell is trying to charge those customers who ask for special services, rather than spread the cost for these services over all customers' bills.

"For instance, the new residence phone installation charge of $16, and $20 for business places a more realistic cost on the customer ordering the service moved," Galloway said.

"Another example is the new charge of 50 cents a month for unlisted numbers. Non-Published service requires special handling by the company right from the time the customer places the order," Galloway noted "these numbers are strictly supervised and security is tight. Yet costs of this special security, record keeping and operator handling keep rising, so we have asked that those costs be borne by those who have unlisted numbers."

Non-published number customers will also have the option of canceling this service. Those who choose non-published service will have the additional option of ordering an emergency call report service, paying 75 cents for each message that is delivered to them.

Under the new rates single party residential service in Washington C.H. will increase 95 cents monthly, two party service will go 75 cents a month. Monthly increases for business services will amount to $2.60 for a single line and $7.95 for a truck line. Extension phones in a residence will be 90 (Please turn to page 2)

Cambodia to be left on own

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last U.S. bomb will fall on Cambodia by midnight (EDT) tonight, ending history's longest air war that saw Indochina blasted with a record 7.4 million tons of explosives.

The extra six and a half months of bombing in Cambodia after the Vietnam ceasefire has added to doubts about the ability of air power to force political settlements in wars of this kind.

Despite the backing of more than 430 U.S. bombers and fighter bombers, Cambodia's army of about 190,000 men was squeezed into enclaves by a Communist-led insurgent force about one-fourth its size. As the U.S. bombing drew to a close, the insurgents held about 80 per cent of Cambodia's territory.

Pentagon officials said no one can forecast with any confidence what will happen after the American warplanes halt their bombing runs. The Cambodian military has only 50 small fighter bombers.

The Nixon administration took the position that U.S. bombing support of the Cambodian army was needed to bring about a cease-fire there and North Vietnamese compliance with sections of the Paris agreement requiring Hanoi to pull its troops out of Cambodia.

But there is no Cambodian cease-fire and no real prospect of one. U.S. intelligence estimates the North Vietnamese have about 30,000 soldiers in Cambodia, most of them in a position to threaten South Vietnam.

The prolonged air strike in Cambodia, and for a limited time in Laos after the Vietnam peace agreement was signed in January, added to the heavy cost borne by the United States in waging the air war, which dates back to 1965.

Sixteen U.S. servicemen's names have been added to the roster of about 2,100 pilots and air crewmen who earlier lost their lives. Four Americans are missing in action, joining about 1,260 other U.S. fighting men whose fate is still not known.

The U.S. Air Force lost 10 aircraft worth about $31.4 million, on top of the nearly 3,700 planes either shot down or crashed between 1965 and the signing of the Vietnam peace pact.

The Pentagon estimates the six-and-a-half-month phase of the air war in Cambodia and Laos cost the taxpayer about $442.8 million.

Dollar higher on markets

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar moved up at the opening of European foreign exchange markets today, and gold dropped to a three-month low.

The dollar sold at 2.9645 Swiss francs in Zurich, two centimes over Monday's close, and at 2.4160 marks in Frankfurt, up a pfennig. The dollar gained a quarter of a cent in London with the pound quoted at $2.4722. Dealers said the dollar was being helped by improving U.S. trade figures, the falling gold price and higher interest rates that discourage borrowing for gold speculation.

Gold dropped $4.25 from Monday's close to $97.75 an ounce in early trading today in London. It was the lowest price since May 11.

In Zurich, gold opened at $99 after closing Monday at $101.75.

The metal was selling for $127.50 on June 5, and more than half of its drop since then has come in the past week. It dipped under $100 Monday for the first time in three months, hitting $99 in London, but recovered to $102 before trading closed.

Cox tells why he wants tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox has given the public his first detailed summary of what he hopes to learn about Watergate from tape recordings of presidential conversations.

Cox included the summary in a 68-page argument filed Monday in federal court in support of his request for a court order compelling President Nixon to surrender the tapes.

Nixon refused to comply with a subpoena from Cox demanding the tapes of nine presidential conversations.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica gave the White House until Friday to file any additional arguments and scheduled courtroom debate for Aug. 22.

The tapes demanded by Cox cover eight meetings and one telephone conversation between June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate break-in, and April 15, 1973.

In his brief, Cox noted that on Sept. 15, 1972, after a federal grand jury had indicted seven men for their participation in the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters, Nixon met with H.R. Haldeman, then his staff chief, and John W. Dean III, then his counsel.

Dean told the Senate Watergate committee the President congratulated him for doing a good job. Dean said he interpreted Nixon's remarks as evidence the President was aware of the cover-up.

Haldeman, who told the committee he had listened recently to the tape of the meeting, said there was discussion of the Watergate case, but denied Nixon congratulated Dean on his efforts to thwart the investigation.

If the tapes confirm Dean's version, said Cox, "it will tend to establish that a conspiracy to obstruct justice reached the highest level of government...."

"If Haldeman's innocuous version of the meeting can be sustained, it is because the meeting only involved an innocent discussion of political interests. The question of Dean's perjury would then arise."

Cox offered some comments on other tapes he seeks:

—Meeting of June 20, 1972, between the President and aides John D. Ehrlichman and Haldeman. "The contemporary evidence of that meeting should show the extent of the knowledge of the illegal activity by the participants or any effort to conceal the truth from the respondent (Nixon)."

—Telephone call June 20, from former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, then director of the President's re-election campaign, to Nixon. "This apparently was the first direct contact after the break-in between respondent and Mitchell...."

—Meeting of June 30, 1972, between Nixon, Mitchell and Haldeman. Mitchell has testified it concerned his impending resignation as campaign director. It "strains credulity to suppose that Watergate and how Watergate affected Mitchell and the campaign were not topics of conversation."

—Meeting of March 13, 1973, between Nixon, Dean and Haldeman. Dean told the committee that Nixon said he had approved executive clemency for E. Howard Hunt Jr. and that there would be no problem raising $1 million to buy the silence of the Watergate defendants.

—Two meetings on March 21, 1973. Participants included Nixon, Dean, Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Ronald L. Ziegler, presidential press secretary. Haldeman quoted Nixon as saying there would be no problem raising $1 million. He added that the President said it would not be right to pay the money.

—Meeting of March 22, 1973. Participants were Nixon, Dean, Ehrlichman, Haldeman and Mitchell. "This meeting was apparently concerned with political assessments... and is likely to reveal the knowledge and motives of the participants."

—Meeting of April 15 between Nixon and Dean. The ousted White House counsel told the Senate committee the President told him he had only been joking in his reference to raising $1 million and that he had been foolish to discuss executive clemency with Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel.

Guardsman tells of KSU incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Ohio National Guardsman present at the 1970 Kent State University shootings says he witnessed a campus patrolman seize a gun from a photographer, then exclaim, "My God, it's been fired!"

The former guardsman, Michael Delaney, said he saw Terrence B. Norman turn over the .38-caliber revolver to the patrolman two or three minutes after a fusillade of bullets killed four students and wounded nine others.

Norman's presence and activities on the campus apparently will be part of the renewed Justice Department investigation of the shootings.

Whether Norman's gun was fired has become a key point of dispute. Norman, who now works for the riot-trained special operations division of the District of Columbia police department, has refused comment. His attorney could not be reached in several attempts Monday night.

Delaney, who also works in Washington, said in an interview that he did not examine the gun himself but overheard the patrolman who took it from Norman say instantly that the weapon had been fired.

Although Delaney said he did not know the patrolman's name, the FBI

has identified him as Harold Rice.

Delaney's account is similar to the report of a Little Rock, Ark., newsman who also was at Kent State. The newsman, Fred R. DeBrine, said he saw Norman turn over the gun and heard him say, "I had to do it. They were trying to kill me."

DeBrine also said the campus policeman handed the pistol to campus detective Thomas Kelley, who opened the chamber and exclaimed, "My God, he fired four shots. What the hell do we do now?"

Kelley has denied making the statement and declared last Tuesday, "The gun had not been fired."

DeBrine said Monday night that Delaney was present and had witnessed the encounter with Norman.

A former newsman, Delaney said he was at the time a public information officer for the guard and had been assigned to issue press credentials to newsmen covering the campus disturbances.

He said he reluctantly issued credentials to Norman after a university official told him Norman "had done some work for the FBI."

Delaney said the matter of the press credentials enabled him to recognize Norman at the encounter following the shootings.

Next Skylab rocket moved to Cape Kennedy launch pad

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The rocket and spaceship being prepared as possible rescue vehicles for the Skylab 2 astronauts move to the launch pad today at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

However, space agency officials here emphasize the move is just a precaution. They feel confident Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma will be able to return safely to earth Sept. 25 in their Apollo ship.

A Saturn 1B rocket, with a new Apollo perched on top, was to make the 3½-mile trip to the launch pad from an assembly building on a giant tracked transporter.

After a month of checkout, the rocket will be ready on Sept. 10 or later if a rescue mission is required. Flying the mission in a modified five-seat Apollo would be Skylab backup astronauts Vance D. Brand and Donald L. Lind.

If a rescue is not necessary, the rocket and spacecraft will be used to carry the Skylab 3 crew, probably in November, for a two-month stay in the space lab.

Around-the-clock preparations for a possible rescue were ordered two weeks ago when leaks developed in two jet steering engines in the Skylab 2 spaceship, now docked at one end of the orbiting space station.

Although analysis of the problems is not complete, space agency engineers feel their steering jets on the vehicle are in good shape and can bring the craft back to earth safely.

Solar astronomy and medical experiments were to occupy the three astronauts today, the 18th day in their 59-day mission.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off .05 to 55.18 at noon.

On the American Stock Exchange, losers also held broad lead over gainers and the price-change index had dipped .03 to 23.04 at noon.

Tenneco, the Big Board volume leader, lost 1/2 to 20 1/2. Phelps Dodge, reflecting increased demand for copper, rose 3/4 to 47 1/4.

Gold mining stocks were lower, reflecting the steep drop in the metal's price on European markets. ASA Ltd. fell 1 1/2 to 38 1/2.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam recently flew several thousand soldiers of Cambodian descent to the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, well-informed sources said today.

The soldiers, flown to Phnom Penh this month, were members of South Vietnam's two million Cambodian minority in the Mekong Delta, the sources said.

The sources said the soldiers were drawn both from regular military units and groups of civilians with military training.

The airlift so far has amounted to fewer than 10,000 troops, the sources said.

Cambodia borders on South Vietnam. There have been no official announcements that the Cambodian government requested or that the Saigon government had offered assistance by South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

Armco Steel hikes prices

Armco Steel Corp. has announced that it is reinstating the price increases on sheet steel products which were to have become effective June 17. The scheduled increases were delayed by the phase III price freeze.

In compliance with the phase IV regulations, Armco is filing a notice of its cost increases with the Cost of Living Council and intends to make the price increases effective on shipments starting Sept. 12, the conclusion of the 30-day mandatory waiting period.

Armco stated that the increases would average approximately 5 per cent over current prices and would fall considerably short of reflecting a dollar-for-dollar pass through of major advances in costs of materials and labor which it has incurred since the phase IV base period of the fourth quarter of 1972. If applied on an industry basis as measured by 1972 shipments, it is estimated that the increases would amount to about 2 per cent of the total sales revenue.

An Armco spokesman emphasized that the Bureau of Labor Statistics price indexes show that since the implementation of the price control program in August 1971, the prices of sheet steel products have increased less than prices of heavy steel products such as plates and structurals. Sheet steel price increases have also been less than half the increase for industrial commodities and about one-fifth of the increase in the wholesale price index for all commodities.

There have been no price increases in the past 19 months in spite of employment cost increases of 8 per cent each in August 1972 and 1973, a 50 percent increase in the price of scrap and substantial increases in practically all other materials, fuels and services.

"It is obvious," the spokesman said, "that the flat rolled segment of the steel industry has borne a disproportionate share of the burden of price stabilization, and price relief is long overdue."

cents a month and $1.90 on business lines.

Ohio Bell Public Relations Vice President Joseph Reed said the rate increase was "less than we felt was needed," but he said the company agreed to the lower figure because we "desperately need more revenue immediately."

He said the company tried to place the burden of the increases wherever possible on persons asking for special services. The company now requires a 50-cent monthly charge for unlisted service, he said, because "costs of this special security, record keeping and operator handling keep rising."

Along the same line, Reed said, businesses will have to pay more for services such as extensions and installation than home phone customers.

Another feature of the new rates include scrapping of the old three-minute minimum charge for long distance calls within Ohio. The new minimum will be one minute, with set charges for each additional minute, the company said.

Ohioans calling long distance out of state, however, still will be charged on the three-minute minimum basis.

Ohio may get $39 million for transit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio could receive $39 million this year to help solve mass transportation problems in the state's big cities.

State Transportation Director J. Phillip Richley said Monday Ohio expects a total of $168.8 million this fiscal year from the Federal Highway Act of 1973. President Nixon signed the $22.9 billion appropriation measure Monday.

The three-year act "has opened the door for mass transit and provided local options for using money, but has not closed the door on highways," Richley said.

He said $39 million of Ohio's share could be earmarked for easing transportation problems in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Youngstown, Dayton, Akron and Canton.

Local funding proposals will be needed to obtain the federal money, Richley said.

"We need the urban areas working hard on their local transportation problems. If they don't get the money, it won't be because it wasn't available."

Richley said the local areas will decide whether the funds are spent on mass transit or highways.

If spent on mass transit, the money could go to acquire failing, privately owned transportation lines or to build terminals or other facilities, the director said.

He said the bill also contains money for rural public transportation programs.

Energy conservation importance noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy conservation was described today as apparently the most promising approach to solving environmental problems related to energy use.

The Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) reached that conclusion, and several others, in a preliminary analysis designed to show how the environmental impact of various energy-producing systems can be traced and estimated.

The report concentrated on present fuel sources—coal, oil, gas and nuclear—and on those future sources that seem closest to reality, such as oil shale, coal gasification and the nuclear breeder reactor.

On a tentative basis, the CEQ concluded, "this report has significant implications for several aspects of a national energy policy."

"First... energy conservation, to the extent feasible, is the most environmentally desirable way to meet

Wheat exporter faces charges filed by CEA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commodity Exchange Authority (CEA) has filed its second formal complaint against a grain exporter involved in last year's massive wheat sale to Russia.

The authority announced Monday it has charged the Louis Dreyfus Corp. of New York with willfully understating its wheat holdings during July-October 1972.

Dreyfus shipped about 18 per cent of the 440 million bushels of U.S. wheat exported to the Soviet Union in 1972-73. The controversial grain sales by private firms were made under a U.S.-Soviet agreement signed July 8, 1972.

The CEA is investigating all firms that sold wheat to Russia. Its latest complaint, however, did not specifically draw a link between Dreyfus' alleged understating of holdings and the Russian deal.

Various investigations of the wheat sales have produced allegations that firms dealt secretly in cash with

New ADC formula computed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Controlling Board approved a new computing formula Monday that will increase Aid to Dependent Children benefits an average of $15 a month.

Welfare Director Charles Bates said the new Uniform Allowance would save taxpayers' money by reducing department errors and rewarding recipients for better money management.

The request, approved 5-2, will become effective Sept. 1. It will be financed with the $633,072,800 ($303,893,000 of it state money) in the 1974-75 biennium appropriations. Benefits will start in October.

State Sens. Howard C. Cook, R-1 Toledo, and Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, voted against the request. Cook accused the department of giving misleading figures to legislators in order to get their appropriations.

Bates was to hold a news conference Tuesday to explain the new funding formula.

The welfare director denied Cook's allegation, saying that when the budget request was presented, the April caseload was unknown.

Under the Uniform Allowance, Bates said all families of four would receive up to $201 per month for food, clothing, shelter and utilities.

The new formula will consist of subtracting outside income from a standard established solely upon the size of a family.

Although Bates said the increase would vary because of family sizes, he predicted it at $15 per month. The Legislative Service Commission, the research arm of the legislature, said it may be $23 a month.

The controlling board also gave the Department of Highway Safety permission to waive competitive bidding on a contract with an Illinois supplier for production of 1974 reflectorized license plates for $714,000.

The agreement calls for the state to pay Structo Division of King-Seeley Thermos Co. of Freeport, Ill., 23.8 cents for manufacturing three million sets of 1974 Ohio license plates. Ohio is to provide all steel and reflective material, and Structo guarantees the finished plates will be ready for shipping by Jan. 1, 1974.

How to keep your cool and cut your cooling bill.

DP&L Consumer Service Representatives have some suggestions to help you get more comfort from your air conditioner and still keep your electric bill low. The items on this checklist may save you many dollars.

Operating Tips

- As a general rule, leave the thermostat at the highest setting which keeps you comfortable. For each degree lower, your air conditioner uses about 5% more electricity.
- If you are away for a weekend, turn the unit off. If away for several hours, set on FAN ONLY.
- If your air conditioner has been shut off during the cool night, give it an early start the next morning, before a new day's heat fills the house. Don't use a colder-than-normal setting to start. That will only make the unit run longer. It will not cool any faster.
- Draw draperies or lower awnings on the sunny side of the house to keep out the sun's heat.
- On hot days, close the fresh air regulator and do not draw in hot outside air. Open the regulator on cool nights.
- Don't block air conditioning vents with furniture or draperies.
- If you have a central system, don't try to maintain different temperatures in different rooms (by closing air outlets.) You may unbalance the system.
- Close the fireplace damper. An open chimney may draw cool air from the home.

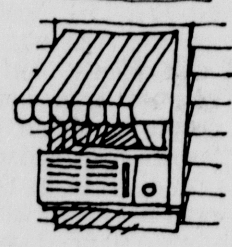

Maintenance Tips

- Have a yearly checkup of equipment. This may help avoid costly repairs later.

These steps can help also

- Install window units on the shady side of house if possible. If in direct sun, shade unit with an awning.

Insulation is important

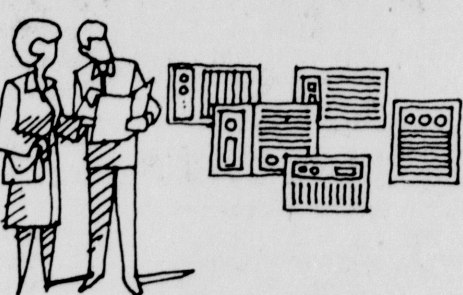

- Storm windows, weather-stripping and window caulking help keep heat out in summer, keep cold out in winter.
- Insulation is most important. If your home is not well insulated you should consider the savings on heating bills as well as air conditioning that are possible with added insulation.

Avoid extra heat when possible

- An exhaust fan, externally vented, can help rid your kitchen of cooking heat.
- Lights, TV, and most other appliances, generate heat. Turn them off when they're not in use.

What to look for if you're buying an air conditioner

- An attic exhaust fan will help prevent the build-up of intense heat above your living area, reducing the load on air conditioning equipment.
- Be sure the air conditioner you buy has proper cooling capacity for your needs. Too little won't get the job done. Too much may prevent adequate dehumidification and you will feel clammy.
- Cooling capacity is measured in "Btu's." Operating cost is measured in "watts." Generally, the more Btu's per watt, the more efficient the unit.
- Be sure your wiring is adequate to handle new equipment. Units rated at more than 7½ amps may require a separate electrical circuit. Most units over 10,000 Btu capacity operate on 240 volts and will require a separate circuit.
- When you talk to your dealer, have the information that will help him recommend the right unit for you: Size and location of rooms. Size of windows. Insulation. Exposure to direct sunlight? What rooms receive direct sunlight?

Better crime figures needed

Gratification at the decrease in serious crimes reported by the Federal Bureau of Investigation is tempered by Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson's views on the general subject of crime reporting. The good news issued by the FBI came on the heels of an interview in which Richardson questioned the validity of the agency's Uniform Crime Report statistics.

Measured against the figures in previous years, the current report is heartening. For the first time in 17 years, the FBI says, there was a decline - only 2 per cent, but a decline all the same - in the overall total of serious crimes reported to police in the United States.

There were increases in some important categories. The incidence of rape was up 11 per cent, of murder 5 per cent, of assaults 7 per cent. There were reductions, though, in various kinds of theft: robberies, burglaries, larcenies, auto theft (the latter down by 6 per cent). This was sufficient to make the grand total 5.8 million serious crimes reported by local law enforcement agencies in 1972, compared with 5.9 million the year before.

In his interview prior to release of the Uniform Crime Report statistics, Richardson essentially reaffirmed what others have often said in the past. This is that a great many crimes go unreported and do not show up in the official total. "We have no mechanism in place," he said, "for measuring the volume of crime committed."

It is good to learn from the attorney general that methods of compiling more accurate crime data are being developed. Comparisons on the present basis are instructive. But a clearer picture of crime, reported and unreported, is needed if an adequate counterattack is to be mounted.

THESE DAYS. . by John Chamberlain

A snake-bitten administration

When Clark Clifford, in his infamously famous op. ed. piece in the New York Times, called for the double resignation of President Nixon and Vice President Agnew in order to hand the White House back to the liberals despite the 1972 election mandate, he faced a seemingly immovable stumbling block. Spiro Agnew had not been touched by Watergate. So who or what could make him resign?

Now, however by a fearful symmetry, mud has been splattered on Agnew. In the press conference which the Vice President called to affirm his innocence of the charge of being involved in kickbacks when he was Governor of Maryland, the word "resign" was banded about by the reporters. If Clark Clifford had been masterminding the script, it couldn't have been more pat.

The Federal investigation of Agnew coming on top of the Senatorial inquisition into Nixon's connections with Watergate surely couldn't have been anything more than a nasty coincidence. But what the liberals will try to make of it won't be coincidence. Agnew will have to come absolutely clean, presenting all his records and disdaining any reliance on such things as Executive privilege and separation of the powers, if he is to sustain his credibility as the "Mr. Candor" of a snake-bitten administration. Even the smallest lingering suspicion of Agnew guilt will alter Clark Clifford's fantasy into a substantial debater's position.

Fortunately, Agnew began well by calling that immediate press conference. It is what Vic Gold, his former press aide, wanted him to do. It is impossible to meet Agnew face to face and not be impressed with his appearance of absolute candor and honesty. Where it could be "tricky Dicky," it has never been "tricky Spiro." But, as of the moment of writing, Agnew reserves the right to discuss the question of the release of his papers with his counsel. Even this hesitance won't do; a man's financial records aren't in the same category as Nixon's tapes, which presumably

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Photo's a better souvenir than guilt

DEAR ABBY: I am a maid in a first class hotel. (Please don't mention the city.) I took something from a very famous person who stayed here. I have admired this person for years and only wanted a souvenir.

What I took may be valuable, and now my conscience is bothering me. I am not a common thief, but I'm not brave enough to confess, and now I don't know what to do. Please help me. I trust you.

TROUBLED MIND

DEAR TROUBLED: Go to your public library and look for that person's name and address in "Who's Who in America." If you find it, male back whatever you took. If you can't find the name and address, write to me and I will find it for you. (You can trust me.) And if you ever again want a "souvenir" from a famous person, ask for an autographed picture.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a fairly large office. One of the girls who works here is being married soon, so a coworker suggested we girls give her a bridal shower. (The bride-to-be is 30 years old and has been married before. So has her fiancé.)

The bride made up a list of "suggested shower gifts," which she mimeographed and distributed to all the girls in the office. This list is titled "CAN USE" and there are three pages of "gift suggestions" (typed, single-spaced indicated brand names preferred, and "where-to-purchase.") She listed everything imaginable from a cork-screw to a king-sized bedspread ! ! !

She even submitted dimensions of her living room, dining room, bedroom and bath indicating rugs are needed."

When I saw this list I was turned off completely and decided not to attend. I declined the shower and told the girls why. Was I wrong?

SOURD IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR SOURD: No. Since you felt that the purpose of this shower was to "soak" the guests, I don't blame you.

DEAR ABBY: I just had a terrible experience. I invited the gas man into our mobile home for a cup of coffee. He had been filling our tank for about a years, and he seemed so nice.

I had just made a fresh pot of coffee and asked him if he wanted to join me for a cup. (My husband had left for work.)

When this man got inside he sat at the table and kept looking at me funny. I felt uncomfortable but kept talking and sipping coffee. Then he said he'd never seen a mobile home like mine before, so I offered to show him around. He kind of cornered me in the baby's room, but I managed to get out of that situation and back into the kitchen.

I kept praying someone would call me. Finally, I edged toward the door, and opened it, and told him I had a lot of work to do. He left reluctantly.

Abby, I am only 22. Am I naive? Was I wrong in inviting him in for coffee? Do most men who talk to housewives take this as an invitation for something else?

Was I being forward? I blame myself. I swear I only meant to be friendly.

FRIGHTENED

DEAR FRIGHTENED: Perhaps he mistook your friendliness for something more. Most men who deal with housewives are straight and strictly all business. But it's best to play it safe and keep your distance.

'Discount' brokerage houses rise

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Several relatively new firms across the nation are providing the investment business' answer to the discount store.

These "discount" brokerage houses say they will buy or sell stocks for investors at commission rates ranging from 20 to 80 per cent less than larger brokers — members of the major stock exchanges — must charge under exchange rules.

As with the discount store, the cut-rate broker generally limits himself to the essentials — namely, the execution of a customer's order.

"We cut out all the frills, carpeting, and vice presidents," says Lawrence H. Weiss, president of Odd Lot Securities, Ltd., in New York.

Most of these firms, which number about a dozen around the nation, have only a handful of employees. They typically have no research department and accept only cash-paying customers. "If you want advice or a quote, call Merrill Lynch. If you want to place an order, call us," says one discount broker.

Since these discount houses are not stock exchange members, they are not bound by the exchange's minimum commission rules. When a customer places an order, the discount broker will shop around in the over-the-counter market and on the New York or other exchanges for the best price.

If the best price, say, is on the Big Board, the broker has to place the order through a NYSE member and charge the customer regular Big Board rates. But if he can get a good price from the third market, where many Big Board securities are traded over the counter, he can offer a sizable commission discount.

For 50 shares of AT&T, for instance, assuming a price of $50 a share, a brokerage house belonging to the NYSE is required to charge $42.50 in commission. Some of the discounters will charge anywhere from $25 to $34.

Most of these firms, however, tend to discourage odd lot trades of less than 100 shares, and shy away from the really small investor.

"One of our main problems is that people don't really believe they can pay less than NYSE rates. They think we're illegal," says John Rose, president of Chicago-based Rose & Co.

"And then there is the little old lady who thinks she is pulling a fast one on somebody by coming to us and selling her AT&T," he adds. "But most of the customers are people who have a little savvy on the market and know what they want — small banks, businessmen, investment counselors."

A $20 saving on a $2,500 order may seem hardly worth the effort, but at a time when the NYSE is seeking to raise its minimum commission rates, the discount houses are attracting more and more notice.

County receives August payment

Fayette County received $5,113.50 in Local Government Fund money for the month of August, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. A total of $3,452,845.62 was distributed to Ohio's 88 counties, and 318 cities and villages levying income taxes.

The August distribution was some $1,450,000 lower than the $4.9 million distributed to local governments in July under this program.

Thus far in 1973, the counties, and cities and villages having income taxes, have received a total of $37,667,743.36 in Local Government Fund money. The money is derived monthly from taking 3.5 per cent of state collections of sales, corporation and personal income taxes.

Use of the percentage factor causes the amount of money available for distribution to local political subdivisions to fluctuate monthly, Ferguson said.

Ferguson said the state in July (the month used for the August distribution) collected $65,592,381.75 in sales taxes, $2,366,981.56 in corporation taxes, and $30,693,979 in personal income taxes.

Nudity views liberalized

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A recent survey indicates American attitudes toward premarital sex and some nudity have become much more liberal than they were four years ago, says the Gallup Poll.

In the July 6-9 survey, 48 per cent of the 1,544 persons questioned said they thought premarital sex is wrong. In a 1969 survey, 68 per cent held that opinion.

Forty-three per cent said it was not wrong when asked: "Do you think it is wrong for people to have sex relations before marriage or not?" The remainder had no opinion.

In July, 55 per cent of those surveyed said they would be offended by nude pictures in magazines, and 59 per cent thought topless waitresses would offend them. The 1969 survey showed 73 per cent would be offended by magazine nudes; 76 per cent by topless waitresses.

Garden Club annual picnic held in Leesburg

Twenty members and one guest, Mrs. Laurence Layman, of the Fayette Garden Club met Friday for their annual picnic at the Leesburg Community Hall. Hostesses were Mrs. Walter Thompson, Mrs. George Trimmer, Miss Norma Dodd, and Mrs. C. S. Kelley.

Mrs. Robert Meriweather, president, and Mrs. George Trimmer, flower show chairman, expressed their appreciation for the support and participation from the members who made arrangements for the Fair Flower Show.

The 20 members exhibited gladioluses from their gardens. Some of the outstanding specimens were All-America Winners—Miss America, Frostie Pink, Grape Juice, Snow Top and Cascade.

The arrangement for the month, "Glad to See You" was arranged by Miss Arbana Roush. She used a single gladiolus, "Miss America" in a low container in a vertical design.

Mrs. Meriweather conducted the program, "Garden Memories" by asking each member to express their observation, knowledge, disappointments, surprises, and pleasures which they have lived through during their gardening experiences. The members responded with a variety of subjects, propagation of plants, leadership in the club, projects of the club, and the early Fayette County Fair Flower Shows, dating back to 1939.

Plans were completed to attend "Gardeners' Day Out" at Don Scott Field, Ohio State University in Columbus, and several members announced their plans to attend the outdoor historical drama, "Tecomseh" on Sugar Loaf Mountain, Chillicothe.

After the short business meeting, Mrs. Meriweather read correspondence from the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The next meeting will be held September 14, at Anderson's Restaurant. Hostesses will be Mrs. Herbert Wilson, Mrs. Arthur Finley, Mrs. P.C. Harlow, Mrs. Kenneth Craig, and Mrs. George Stitt. The program topic will be "Bulbs-Beauty to Come" by Mrs. Ralph Hays. The design will be "Dreams of Tomorrow" by Mrs. Kenneth Bush.

Dam hearing held today

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A hearing on a temporary injunction which has halted work on two dam and reservoir projects in Warren and Clermont counties was to have been held today in U. S. District Court.

Judge Carl Rubin, who sits in Dayton and Columbus, was called in to hear the case when Judge Timothy Hogan excused himself because he owns stock in a corporation which owns land in Clermont County.

Hogan granted a temporary injunction against further work on the Caesar Creek project in Warren County and the East Fork project in Clermont County July 24 after Ohio Atty. Gen. William Brown filed suit to halt the projects. Both projects are on the Little Miami River.

Brown has contended the Army Corps of Engineers did not file adequate environmental impact statements on either of the multi-million dollar projects.

Storminess diminishes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms that dumped heavy rain on parts of the Midwest and swept sections of the West with high winds diminished today leaving most of the nation under fair skies.

Storms erupted in Texas and over the Rockies into eastern Nevada throughout Monday. Others soaked portions of the Midwest from Missouri to Virginia and south to Alabama.

Two to three inches of rain swamped parts of the St. Louis metropolitan area and caused flash flooding late Monday. A flash-flood watch also was issued for east-central Illinois early today.

During Monday's storms in eastern Nevada, wind gusts reached 67 miles per hour at Missoula, Mont., and 62 m.p.h. at Havre, Mont.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 50 at Duluth, Minn., to 95 at Needles, Calif.

Women get chance at state posts

By DEAN SCHOTT

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan discriminates in appointing women to vacancies on numerous state boards and commissions. He wants them.

Former Gubernatorial aide Robert Cecile said, "One of the things the governor asked me to do was to look at each board and commission to find if they had women. If they didn't, my job was to find them."

When he checked the list of members for nearly 200 boards, he said, "In most cases I didn't find any."

Now, he said, "I would have to say women are being given every consideration. There's no discrimination against them. In fact, they are given more consideration."

"The governor would be very pleased if his appointments worked out to a 50-50 spread between the sexes, but that would take more than two gubernatorial terms."

Since Gilligan first took office in January 1971, 109 women have been named to statutory boards and commissions and another 100 to task forces selected by the governor to examine particular areas of concern. Cecile said the percentage of female appointments during Gilligan's 2½ years was not available.

Many of the appointments are to non-salaried positions on commissions. The members receive only their expenses incurred while performing official duties.

However, some of the jobs are plums with handsome salaries and power. This year, Gilligan named Sally Bloomfield of Columbus to the three-member Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. The commission regulates all utility companies in the state and considers rate adjustments.

In the past month, he appointed Marguerite Neal of Columbus to the Ohio Industrial Commission, another three-member board. The board considers employee claims resulting from industrial accidents.

Their salaries are $25,168 and $17,100 a year, respectively.

Gilligan has also put women in influential positions. He named women to boards of trustees at Ohio State, Ohio, Miami, Kent State, Youngstown State

Farmer-consumer peace talks urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of a division of a major holding company is calling for peace talks between America's embattled farmers and angry consumers.

Joseph P. Sullivan, president of Estech Inc., said: "Finding a common meeting ground of shared needs and goals is the only way the communications gap can be bridged. In a nation with a long tradition of problem-solving, this task is most definitely not insurmountable."

Estech is a chemicals and industrial products division of Esmark Inc., of Chicago, whose other divisions include Swift & Co., Vickers Energy Corp. and GSI Inc.

Sullivan deplored "a growing polarity between food producers and shoppers" and said that fear and a lack of understanding on both sides are the causes of the friction.

"News of another meat boycott or and Central State universities. He also appointed a woman to the Ohio Board of Regents, which oversees all of Ohio's state-assisted colleges and technical schools.

To assist the governor in finding qualified women, the Women's Services Division of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services publishes a list of upcoming vacancies. The publication, Ohio Woman, asks interested women to file resumes with the division, which in turn gives the applications to Cecile.

Find Morris jail site

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — University of Pennsylvania archeology students have uncovered the remains of an 18th Century jail where one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence was once confined.

Robert Morris, known to every schoolboy as the "financier of the Revolution," spent time in the debtors' section of the old Walnut Street Jail.

The workshop of the old jail was uncovered in what is now the rear garden of the Philadelphia Athenaeum.

The jail, built in 1775, was regarded as the first true penitentiary of the Western Hemisphere.

Morris was incarcerated there from 1798 to 1801 after reverses in his fortune. President George Washington called on him in jail and dined with him there.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. Harper

NO PERCENTAGE IN KEEPING UP WITH THE JONESES!

Are you living dangerously?

These days impulse buying and debt are almost ever-present members of a family. So many things to do and buy — and without reasonable restraint the price is never right, often a monumental sum in final analysis.

Sometimes installment buying for certain products can be justified, and when major financial crisis happen, one just must borrow.

There are even times when it is good business to borrow.

The danger is when time payments consume too large an amount of income.

Getting too far into debt can be a most insidious addiction.

Avoid competitive living. Think before you borrow!

98 gridders report for opening drills

Heat, humidity and early afternoon rain showers not withstanding, high school football practice opened Monday morning at both Washington C.H. and Miami Trace high schools. A total of 98 gridders are practicing in the two camps.

Predictable enthusiasm was present as both teams opened pre-season practice with two workouts and with first-day morale at its usual high, both teams were able to report productive sessions.

THE TWO-A-DAY drills began right on schedule and will continue throughout the next two weeks until school starts.

At Miami Trace, new head coach Fred Zechman welcomed 50 hopefuls, while veteran Washington C.H. mentor Maurice Pfeiffer greeted 48 prospective candidates.

The emphasis is on physical conditioning in both Fayette County football camps even though candidates from both schools have been involved in voluntary conditioning programs since mid-July. The Ohio High School Athletic Association requires four days of conditioning once practice officially opens.

The Miami Trace coaching staff is concentrating on rebuilding after a total of 14 seniors were via graduation and several held key positions in the Panthers' 7-3 season a year ago.

Youth also dominates Zechman's first Miami Trace training camp as 25 of the 50 prospective candidates are sophomores.

Zechman singled out the performances of tackle John Woodrow, defensive back Dusty Ruth, guard Greg Wieland and running back Doug Baker following Monday's opening drills.

The Panthers are working out at 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. with classroom sessions sandwiched between those drills.

Conditioning highlighted Washington C.H.'s first official practice session as Pfeiffer and his assistant coaches watched 34 of the 48 candidates complete the Lions' traditional mile run.

JEFF BROWN and David Peyton led Monday's conditioning requirement by completing the mile in five minutes and 27 seconds, which is the fastest ever time for Blue Lion football candidates, according to Pfeiffer. The veteran Blue Lion taskmaster commented that he was "pleasantly surprised" with Monday's physical conditioning.

The Lion gridders are holding their workouts from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. and noon until 1:30 p.m.

Both teams will pull on the jerseys and pads Thursday, but will not begin full-scale contact until Friday morning.

over New England Saturday and is expected to miss the next two games.

Douglas will be replaced by converted defensive end Henry Reed, who missed most of last season with a blood infection.

The Atlanta Falcons trimmed running backs Henry Brandon and Ray Clarke from their roster and signed veteran running back Eddie Ray. Ray showed up in camp 21 days late and Coach Norm Van Brocklin said the former Louisiana State player would be fined at the rate of $100 per day.

Houston linebacker Garland Boyette, who retired from playing last season and joined the coaching staff, is back in uniform.

Coach Bill Peterson said Boyette, who has been with Houston since 1966, agreed to play again to bolster the Oilers' middle linebacker position.

Pittsburgh plays at Philadelphia Thursday and Washington is at Buffalo Friday in this week's NFL schedule.

Dawson started his 17th professional campaign when he entered the contest with 6:32 left and the Chiefs down 17-10. In 18 plays he hit on seven of 13 passes for 57 yards. His 10-yard scoring toss to Elmo Wright came on fourth down.

Greg Landry took over the Detroit quarterback role in the second half and led the Lions to victory.

Elsewhere in the NFL, three Oakland players emerged from the Raiders' 27-26 victory Saturday over Dallas with injuries. Offensive tackle Bob Brown suffered a broken hand, linebacker Joe Carroll sustained a broken finger and defensive tackle Art Thoms strained a knee.

"We'll know more later about using any of them Saturday," said Oakland Coach John Madden, looking ahead to the Raiders' upcoming game with Los Angeles.

Linebacker John Douglas of New York suffered a pulled hamstring muscle during the Giants 13-7 triumph

Myers notes improvement in Bengal passing attack

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Wide receiver Chip Myers, who caught 57 passes in 1972 for the Cincinnati Bengals, wants to get away from the crowd.

Myers was the second leading receiver in the American Football Conference of the National Football League last year and played in the Pro Bowl.

Coach Paul Brown, in Myers' sixth pro season here, calls the receiver a man with good hands "with the ability to catch in a crowd."

This year, hopes Myers, his receptions won't be confined to the sidelines on down and out patterns and that he'll get into long passes.

Myers, who caught two passes for 30 yards Saturday in Cincinnati's 45-21 rout of the Philadelphia Eagles, said the Bengals "will surprise a lot of people with long passes this year."

He explained that quarterbacks Ken Anderson and Virgil Carter, "contrary to what a lot of people have been saying, can throw the long pass."

He said offensive improvements will enable Cincinnati to open up their passing game this year.

"This year we're establishing our flanker game. We have some real fast flankers this year. We used to have a little trouble there."

"Anyway, with the flankers I think I'll lose a lot of double coverage and be in more one-on-one situations with the defenders. It's just a matter of calling the plays."

Myers, 6-foot-5½, 240 pounds, "would like to catch 40 or 50 passes."

"But, as far as setting any goals like being the top receiver in the league, I'm more interested in catching passes that will help the team ... maybe win us the championship."

Stargell keys win Bucs quiet Cincy bats

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Willie Stargell doesn't plan to watch any television in the early days of October and Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson doesn't expect him to.

It's not that the Pittsburgh Pirates' slugger has anything against TV. It's just that Stargell doesn't like the thought of watching other little men in knickers, shirts and caps playing on his screen for big money.

"Last year we had the best record in baseball and ended up watching the World Series at home," Stargell said after smacking his 34th homer and scoring another run in the Pirates nationally televised 3-2 squeaker over the Reds. "This year our record isn't so good, but maybe we'll be there."

Anderson is more certain. "The Pirates will be there when it's all over," he said.

For the record, the Pirates have not been playing as if they wanted to extend their season beyond the regular schedule. But neither has the rest of the division, which is in jeopardy of having no teams with records on the happy side of 500.

St. Louis is the only club in the National League East with its head above water—61-58—but is sinking fast. The Cardinals' eighth straight loss left the Pirates and their 57-58 record just two games back.

Monday night's victory was a step in that direction as they cooled off a hot Cincinnati club that had won five straight.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Houston Astros shut out the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0; the San Diego Padres nipped the New York Mets 3-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the Montreal Expos 8-5.

Astros 4, Cardinals 0
The St. Louis Cardinals could certainly make a valid case for discrimination as they were handed their eight straight loss and fourth in a row to lefthanded pitchers.

This one was a 4-0 defeat at the left hand of Dave Roberts and the Houston Astros, lowering the Cardinals' record against southpaws to 18-25.

Jim Wynn's homer and Lee May's run-scoring double backed Roberts' five-hit pitching.

Padres 3, Mets 2
Pitcher Jerry Koosman scored a run in the ninth to snap a tie but gave back that run and another in the bottom of the ninth as San Diego rallied for a 3-2 victory over New York.

Dodgers 8, Expos 5
Willie Crawford homered and doubled and drove in four runs to lead Los Angeles to an 8-5 victory over the Expos.

The victory for Claude Osteen, 14-5, enabled the Dodgers to increase their lead in the National League's Western Division to 2½ games over Cincinnati while Montreal remained in third place—three games behind the Eastern Division-leading Cardinals.

Kidron Merchants defeat Greenfield

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Kidron Merchants' Cordell Boss struck out 10 and pitched a seven-hitter Monday to advance the Merchants to the championship game in the Ohio Fast Pitch Softball competition.

The Merchants will meet the winner of the Columbus Ramada Inn-Greenfield game to be played Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. The championship game is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Learned professor explains physics of baseball flight

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Bernoulli, Magnus and Venturi. Who are they, baseball fans?

They aren't an expert doubleplay combination. They aren't a super-slugging threesome.

Dr. Stanley Corrsin tosses their names around when he explains why a baseball reacts the way it does after leaving a pitcher's hand.

Dr. Corrsin, a professor at Johns Hopkins University's Mechanical Engineering Department, is an aerodynamicist and a specialist in the field of turbulence.

He never did a controlled study of pitched balls, but Corrsin is a baseball fan and has been quoted widely on why knuckleballs and spitballs do what they do.

During his explanation, Corrsin throws out scientific terms like Magnus force, Venturi effect and Bernoulli's equation, among others.

He'll never be a Hank Aaron, but this is what Corrsin sees from the batter's box:

When a baseball goes through air, it separates the opposing flow of air and creates a mass of mixed air in its wake, Corrsin said.

A normally spinning fast ball, thrown overhand, follows a straight path because of the top and bottom air pressures, said Corrsin. The spin keeps the wake from being irregular enough to change the path.

A curve ball is different. Corrsin said spinning the ball with a forward motion makes the airflow around it unequal.

Girls softball draws to close

ENGLISH VISITOR — Kathryn Garrud (center), of London, England, will be staying with the C.W. Mustine family for the next two weeks. She is pictured here with the Mustine's two children who are at home, Cindy and Dave.

'Weather terrific,' says London student

Kathryn Garrud, 16, of London, England, has found life in Washington C.H. quite different from that in London. She said that the people here are less reserved, the meals are more casual, and, believe it or not, "the weather is terrific."

Miss Garrud is one of 25 London area students who are visiting southern Ohio this month courtesy of the London Rotary. She is staying with Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mustine and their children, Cindy, 18, and Dave, 15. The group has compared the two countries extensively since Cindy recently returned from a three-week stay in a London suburb.

The people of London are very friendly, they concur, but it is more difficult to get to know them. The people here are more open. Miss Garrud said that the meals, houses, and weather surprised her greatly. The meals are more casual; at home everyone has a full-course meal each time they sit down. Here there are more sandwiches and the meal hour is less formal.

She was amazed at the wooden houses. At home almost all the houses are stone, she said. But most of all she was impressed with the weather. She said, "it's so terribly hot here compared to a London heat wave of 70 degrees."

The Mustines and Miss Garrud attended a Cincinnati Reds game last week, a first for their guest. "It was rather interesting," she said, "but a might boring at first."

Kennedy son, 5 girls hurt in auto crash

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — Two sons of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy escaped serious injury when the open car driven by one of them overturned on a winding and hilly highway. One of the five girls riding with them was seriously hurt.

David A. Kennedy, 18, suffered a possible sprained back when the car driven by his brother Joseph P. Kennedy III, 20, flipped over Monday afternoon on Nantucket Island. Nantucket police said Joseph Kennedy was issued a citation for operating a motor vehicle negligently.

David was reported in satisfactory condition at Cape Cod Hospital here. Joseph was not hurt.

A spokesman for the hospital said one of the five girls was in serious condition with a possible spine fracture. She was identified as Pamela Kelly, 19, of Centerville, Mass.

Mary Schlaff, 23, of Grosse Point, Mich., was hospitalized with a fractured pelvis and right leg. She was listed in good condition.

Torbin Yates, director of communications for the hospital, said David was visited Monday night by his mother, Ethel, and other relatives from the Kennedys' Hyannisport compound.

Yates said the youth had no fractures. It was not known how long he would remain at the hospital.

Police said the car, a Toyota, overturned on Polpis Road. The young people were thrown about 20 feet.

A spokesman for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the boys' uncle, said the senator would have no comment on the accident.

Bridge deaths accord set

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The U.S. Steel Corp. and the J.E. Greiner Co. have agreed to pay $950,000 to survivors of 46 persons killed in the Dec. 15, 1967 collapse of the Silver Bridge linking Point Pleasant and Kanawha, Ohio.

The settlement was signed by U.S. District Court Judge Frank A. Kaufman in Baltimore and filed in federal court here.

U.S. Steel, which provided steel for construction of the span, will pay $750,000 and the Grenier firm, which helped design the bridge, will pay $200,000. Allocation of damage payments will be determined at a later date.

The collapse of the Ohio River bridge during the evening rush hour was blamed by federal investigators on a broken suspension bar.

The settlement does not affect claims against other agencies, including those against the federal government or those pending in the West Virginia Court of Claims.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2♦	Pass
4♥	Pass	6♥

Opening lead - ten of spades.

A careful declarer never puts all his eggs into one basket when there's a better way of managing his assets.

Consider this deal where South won the spade lead with the ace, drew trumps, cashed the king of diamonds, crossed to dummy with a club to the ace on which East's king fell, cashed the ace of diamonds and led a club.

East showing out, the jig was up. Declarer lost two club tricks and went down one.

It is true that he would have made the slam had he found the clubs divided 2-2 or West with the singleton king or queen. In fact, the odds heavily favored losing only one club trick; and to that extent declarer was unlucky to go down.

But even so, the fact remains that South did not play the hand to the hilt. After winning the ace of spades, he should have led a diamond to the king, a heart to the ten, and cashed the ace of diamonds, discarding a club.

When he then ruffed a diamond, declarer would have learned that the suit was divided 4-3 and that the twelfth trick was now 100 per cent certain. He would ruff the king of spades in dummy, ruff the fourth round of diamonds, draw trumps, return to dummy with a club and discard another club on dummy's fifth diamond. His only loser would be a club.

By adopting this method of play, South would have kept intact his chances of a favorable club division if it developed that the diamonds were divided 5-2 instead of 4-3. In effect, by making allowance for a favorable diamond division, South would have put his chances into two baskets instead of one.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A Leg Cramp Wakes Him Nightly

I am 42 years old and am in good health except for one problem that bothers me.

It seems that almost every night I am suddenly awakened by a cramp in the calf of my leg that makes me scream out in pain.

I dread going to sleep. What can I do about it?

Mrs. M.N., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. N.:

This is a common complaint that can be caused by any one of a variety of conditions.

Anyone who has experienced these sudden spasms of the muscles of the legs or the feet knows how distressing this can be. The spasm may last for only a few minutes, but the anxiety associated with it persists.

A sudden cramp simply means that, for some reason, there has been momentary interference with the normal blood supply to the muscle. Arteries bring blood and oxygen to the leg muscles. When the free flow is interfered with, spasm may occur.

In the elderly, arteriosclerosis is one of the major causes interfering with the normal rapid flow of blood.

Some people may develop a spasm of the legs if their bed sheets bind them down too tightly.

Varicose veins may exist without the usual blue mark evidenced on the skin surface. Deep-seated varicose veins may cause the spasms you describe.

A great many people will complain of muscular spasms and painful cramps while walking. A condition known as Buerger's disease is associated with claudication, an arterial spasm that creates painful cramps of the muscles.

The very first thing you should do is to be examined and see if some underlying ailment is causing your vascular spasms.

Tobacco is a great offender, especially in Buerger's disease. The accumulated concentration of tars, toxins, and nicotine in tobacco plays an important role in these painful cramps.

If you do smoke, you should first try to eliminate tobacco. There is an unfounded idea that when a cramp wakes you in the middle of the night you should pop out of bed, jump up and down, and slap the muscle as hard as you can. If you have tried this then you know that if only serves to accentuate the pain.

For a long time, quinine as an anti-spasmodic has been recommended. Apparently, for some people it is effective. If your doctor prescribes it, you may find it helpful.

Many people find that when a spasm occurs, there is a simple movement that can ease the pain.

Lie flat on your back. Forcefully bring your toes upward, pointing them toward your head. Strain to keep the toes in this position for at least a minute. The spasm will often disappear.

The application of moist, warm towels to the cramped muscle can be beneficial, too.

The sun is directly responsible for many phenomena on earth, including the origin and survival of life, clouds, atmospheric motion and weather.

In Focus

by

Charlie Pensyl

In this day of sophisticated propaganda, we must never assume that our image of the President is necessarily accurate. Gary Allen, in his recent book on President Nixon, suggests that he is a man behind a mask. Allen has more than one book on Mr. Nixon and the Nixon Administration. This Watergate thing has created much interest in this area and there is no book better, in our opinion to use as a primer on understanding Watergate and the present administration than RICHARD NIXON - THE MAN BEHIND THE MASK. Allen does a great job of removing the mask. This book is our best seller these days.

Most of those who read the Nixon book, next turn to Cleon Skousen's THE NAKED CAPITALIST for further information. Now, dad, let me tell you something: this is one for the books! Skousen's book will go further to let you in on what's going on than any single book I know. You can read it in an evening. You should read it your first free evening.

The famous economist, Eliot Janeway, has said: "It takes genius plus perseverance to achieve financial weakness from a position of economic strength, but Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz has been equal to the challenge." Janeway could have said the same thing about food. It takes all kinds of genius and bogs of perseverance to produce a shortage of flour, pork, and beans in the United States of America. This administration has proven itself equal to that challenge.

Air conditioning contract awarded by county

After postponing action for a week, the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday awarded a contract for air conditioning the Common Pleas Courtroom to Bogen Heating and Air Conditioning, Columbus. The contract was approved 2-1, with Ray Warner dissenting.

Bogen's bid was $6,707. Bids were opened Aug. 2, but action was delayed while the commissioners examined different air conditioning systems offered by the bidders.

Warner said he voted against the motion not because he opposed installation of an air-conditioning system, but because he favored awarding the contract to Washington Heating and Plumbing, Ohio 38-N.

Commissioners accepted an $8,500 performance bond from Miller Maintenance, which contracted with the county to clean, paint and repair the court house and the county welfare building.

Lot 244 of Millwood Subdivision No. 2 was made part of the Fayette County Highway Complex. The land, adjacent to the county garage, was recently purchased by the county.

Commissioners appropriated $320 for the purchase of furniture at the children's home, and $272 to cover a pay raise granted to Charles Brown, courthouse custodian.

Fayette County Dog Warden Reginald Davis filed 36 reports.

Hospital to seek bids

The Fayette Memorial Hospital Board met Monday and authorized Robert L. Kunz, hospital administrator, to advertise for and accept bids to replace the hospital's water softening system. Bids received will be opened at the September board meeting.

The Board turned over bad debts in the amount of $5,390.63 to a collection agency.

Train derails near Van Wert

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — An Erie-Lackawana freight train left the tracks here today, officials said.

They said no one was injured.

The train, bound to Marion, Ohio, from Huntington, Ind., derailed less than a mile east of Ohio 116 in the southeast corner of Van Wert County, officials said.

They said the train was carrying a flammable substance used in gasoline, but that there was no fire or leakage.

Workmen were called to the scene to remove the wreckage, which blocked rail traffic in both directions.

Cause of the derailment was not immediately known.

Two reported burglaries and vandalism incident were investigated by police and sheriff's departments Monday.

A burglar entered the Club 22, CCC Highway-W, sometime Sunday night and made off with about $45 in change. Sheriff's deputies said the intruder broke a pane from a window on the west side of the building, then unlocked the window to gain entry.

A cigarette machine and a coin operated pool table were forced open and a box containing $5 in pennies were removed from the bar area. The theft was discovered by the janitor Monday morning.

Edward Helt, of 427 W. Elm St.,

reported that someone had punctured four tires on his car Friday night. Helt said the incident occurred while the car was parked on the Lafayette Inn lot. Damage was set at $140.

Martha Shaw, of 324 1/2 Broadway, reported someone had entered the apartment at 12 Steen Ct. into which she was moving, and removed several household items. Loss in the Monday afternoon burglary was set at $72.

Damage minor in 3 accidents

One driver was cited in three traffic mishaps investigated in the city overnight. Property damage was minor.

Robert B. Johnson, 31, Dayton, was cited for reckless operation after his truck struck a parked semi-trailer in front of 908 S. Fayette St. early Tuesday.

9.1% of county exempt from property tax

Most real property in Fayette County was subject to taxation in 1973, according to a report recently issued by the Ohio Public Expenditure Council. The report said 9.1 per cent of the county's real property was exempted from taxation.

Exempted property in the county was valued at $7.2 million. Governmental property accounted for the bulk of the exemptions ($5.6 million), while property of churches ($1.4 million) and charitable institutions, graveyards, cemeteries and monuments ($200,000) accounting for the rest.

The exempted property valuation was $55,550 more than that of 1972 exemptions, an increase of .8 per cent. Valuation of taxable property in the county rose by 1.4 per cent.

Statewide exemptions increased by $151.8 million, or 3.1 per cent, to $5.1 billion. Valuation of taxable property in the state increased five per cent.
